Numerous Bulgarian Citizens Reported To Have Testified against American; No Arrest Likely

BERLIN, Feb. 26 (AP)—D.N.B., German news agency, reported today in a Sofia dispatch that assault charges had been made in the Bulgarian capital against U. S. Minister George H. Earle as a result of last Saturday's cafe bottle-throwing incident.

D.N.B. said Earle was accused of "inflicting light bodily wounds." The agency added that "numerous Bulgarian citizens appeared as witnesses."

"Earle said the altercation arose when a man he identified as a German objected when the orchestra played 'Tipperary' at Earle's request. The man was hit by a bottle and Earle suffered a cut on his arm in warding off a bottle."

A DUKE IN THE ARMY

Angier Biddle Duke, nephew of Anthony J. Draxel Biddle, U. S. ambassador to the refugee governments in London, is shown on his way to train which took him from New York to Fort Dix, N. J., and a year's training in the army. Married and the father of a 3-year-old son, he volunteered. He is a cousin of Doris Duke Cromwell.

Formal Notice of Intention To Strike Filed; Union Appeals To Roosevelt in Grave Crisis

DETROIT, Feb. 26 (AP)—The United Automobile Workers-CIO, in a formal notice required by Michigan law, today threatened three principal Michigan plants of the Ford motor company, which employ nearly 95,000 with their first strike.

In a telegram to President Roosevelt, however, high union officials declared that their organization was "wholeheartedly in support of our national defense program" and that "if there can be avenues opened for adjustment of our grievances without a strike, we are ready to use those avenues."

The Ford company has orders for 4,000 Pratt & Whitney aircraft engines and several thousand "midget" or "pigmy" trucks for the U. S. army. It also is to produce parts and sub-assemblies for bombing planes for the Douglas and Consolidated companies.

HEAD STRIKE OF BETHLEHEM STEEL WORKERS

These officials of the Steel Workers Organizing committee walked out of a meeting with officials of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the Defense Commission and Federal Conciliators last night and a few minutes later a strike went into effect. The company has $1,500,000,000 in defense contracts. Seated, left to right: J. P. Molony, J. T. McNichol, N. E. Cowan, J. M. Fanning. Standing, left to right: Timothy Flynn, Joseph Farrell, L. H. #### Three Thousand Pickets Trying To Keep 14,000 Men from Working in Buffalo; May Spread BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 26 (AP)—CIO workers of Bethlehem Steel's huge Lackawanna plant, working on defense orders, struck tonight as last-minute efforts to avert the walkout failed.

Fifteen minutes before the 9 p. m. (EST) strike deadline representatives of the Steel Workers Organizing committee, the Defense Commission, and federal conciliators ended a three-hour conference with the announcement the controversy could not be settled then.

Picket lines formed at seven gates of the Lackawanna plant which covers a two-mile area as Lorne H. Nelles, union international representative, predicted the plant would be shut down in two hours.

IN JAIL AGAIN

Mrs. Esther M. Moore, S. army regulations mean they say, even when young as are concerned, as Mrs. Esther Moore, 25, above, a bride of less than two months, has found out. She tried to see her husband, Sergeant G. G. Moore, at the air school, Glendale, Cal., but she was put in jail for the first time.

Now she's back in jail, and with again attempting to see her husband contrary to rules, she's defiant. "I think a wife should come ahead of army," she declared, "and I am going to see him."

Hungry Senators Curl Charges in Peace-Lend Fight

Chandler Charges Opponents Seek To Undermine Confidence in FDR

By RICHARD L. TURNER
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—In a tumult of snapping tempers, the Senate today heard Senator Chandler (D-Ky.) accuse opponents of the Peace-Lend bill of endeavoring to undermine public confidence in President Roosevelt.

Turn, Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) angrily replied that Mr. Roosevelt was trying to "flim-flam" the public. He repeatedly described "shocking" the president's statement of yesterday that the task of winning the war must take precedence over any talk of peace aims. He called it indicative of an attitude that the United States was ready in the war.

First Real Debate

As was the first real debate, and first sign of ebbing patience, of nine days the Senate has devoted to the bill. A session which was in quiet fashion with Senator (R-ND) continuing a speech on last week, was suddenly transformed into a scene of excitement.

First of all, Wheeler interrupted to say that Mr. Roosevelt's statement indicated a position which the country should not take unless ready to enter the war.

He submitted we are not in the war, the president of the United States has already committed us to war, I repeat that we are in the war, the constitution of the United States."

How can Britain win, unless we get into the war? Nye asked, and this, Senator Clark (D-Mo.) added the observation that the president had "practically said, 'yes we are in the war.'"

Thoroughly aroused, young Senator Chandler plunged into the discussion.

York Police Find Dynamite Hidden In Barn Haymow

Arrest Suspect Wanted in Maryland as a Bank Robber

YORK, Pa., Feb. 26 (AP)—Police today found fifteen sticks of dynamite and a quantity of electric dynamite explosives in the haymow of a barn beyond West York today.

Detective Ralph Keech said Elmer C. Haldeman, 54, an ex-convict, was arrested and was being returned to Hagerstown, Md., on a charge of complicity in a recent attempted bank holdup at Clear Spring, Md. An accomplice, Archie Edwards, is already in custody of Maryland police charged with the crime.

Meanwhile, police here are continuing a minute search of the barn for clues to four recent safe-blowings in this vicinity.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26 (AP)—Col. Beverly Ober, head of the Maryland state police, said today a suspect in the attempted holdup of a Clear Spring Md. bank last December had been returned to Maryland for questioning.

State Revenue Bill Signed by Governor O'Connor

Cuts $1,500,000 from Annual Expenses of State Taxpayers

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 26 (AP)—Governor O'Connor signed the important state revenue bill, reducing the income-tax, into law today as the legislature faced a major tussle with gasoline tax appropriations and defense highway projects.

The revenue measure, the second major item passed by the legislature, became effective with the governor's signature and will cut $1,500,000 off the state's revenue annually through decreased income rates.

The investment income tax was lowered from six to five per cent and the levy on earned income dropped from 2½ to two per cent. The new rates apply to the 1940 income and the taxes, due April 15 instead of March 15, can be paid in installments.

"The all-inclusive nature of the reduction," the governor said, "will extend the benefits of these savings to practically everyone of the 96,000 or more who filed returns last year."

Reduce Impending Payments
"These savings, very fortunately, have been made applicable to payments on 1940 incomes now due, thus reducing the impending payments by approximately $1,500,000. Savings in at least this amount are assured also for 1942 and 1943, and may run well above this amount if the expected increase in total income tax returns materializes."

Nine minor measures, including local bills, also were enacted into law by the governor.

Meanwhile, O'Connor indicated a road construction bond issue might be necessary to build access roads into federal reservations in the state. He said he believed Maryland taxpayers would be willing to "put up the money" for emergency defense construction if the federal government contributed.

The State Roads Commission is faced with the problem of providing access to such military reservations as the Aberdeen proving grounds, Fort George G. Meade, Indian Head and to the Glenn L. Martin aircraft factory at Middle River.

Right of Way Needed
Ezra B. Whitman, Roads Commission chairman, said another road problem was the acquisition of rights of way. Under the existing condemnation procedure, by time the state obtains rights of way the "emergency will be over," he asserted.

General Foster a Private

The Pennsylvania national guard has a Colonel Firestone. He isn't a colonel. That's just his name. He's a sergeant — Sergeant Colonel Firestone. If Sergeant Colonel Firestone ever has to have official dealings with Private General Foster, they'll probably have to call out the militia.

Bulgarian Army Officers Confer On War Situation

Deny Germans Have Entered Nation on a Large Scale

SOFIA, BULGARIA, Feb. 26 (AP)—The chief of staff of the Bulgarian army, general Nicola Petkoff, conferred today with Premier Bogdan Philoff and Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff, and tonight the cabinet met in emergency session.

As the cabinet members assembled, the government issued still another in its series of denials that German troops poised at the Rumanian frontier had entered Bulgaria.

German Minister Richtofen was understood to have talked during the late afternoon with Popoff.

British Citizens Warned
British citizens who had no imperative reason to remain were advised by their government to leave Bulgaria tonight. Blackout restrictions and threatening anti-aircraft batteries cast about the city an aura of sharp and imminent events.

Although rumors circulated rapidly that German troops already had crossed the Danube at several places, foreign military observers said these reports were not borne out by information from German bases in Rumania.

Fourteen German divisions—about 200,000 men—were reported by these observers to be in position on the banks of the river and ready to start the crossing into Bulgaria whenever they get the word, however.

Reports from the training camps indicate that either the army hasn't got enough names to go around, or somebody did a sketchy job passing them out.

Plan New Labor Board To Settle Big Strikes

Roosevelt Said To Be Ready To Issue Executive Order

By THOMAS F. COMAN
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—A plan for a new labor board to serve as a "supreme court" for strikes and disputes in defense industries which cannot be settled by the established machinery of federal mediation, was reported taking shape today in the hands of high officials.

One well-informed official who declined to be quoted by name said an executive order for the creation of such a board was in the final stage of drafting, and might be hastened by the threat of a widespread strike in the Bethlehem steel mills, loaded with defense orders.

The plan as authoritatively outlined would set up an eleven-man board—three to represent the public, four for labor and four for employers—to do a job of fact-finding and fact-publishing in labor dispute cases where the ordinary processes of the U. S. Conciliation Service were not sufficient to bring about a settlement.

Calls from Sec. Perkins
The board of non-salaried members would intervene only in cases certified to it by Secretary of Labor Perkins, whose jurisdiction embraces the conciliation service.

It would have no powers of compulsion over the parties in a labor dispute, although an official with a hand in the drafting of the plan talked about relying on the force of public opinion to hasten a settlement once the board had published its findings.

An authoritative source said the purpose of the board would be to strengthen the work of the conciliation service and obtain greater employer-employee cooperation without the enactment of special legislation to regulate labor activities.

Would Minimize Stoppages
In addition, it was said, the board's purpose would be to minimize strike stoppages as the war labor board sought to do in the last war, and to provide arbitration for difficult situations if requested by both sides.

The current strike at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee, Wis., was mentioned by one official as a typical case in which the contemplated board might intervene and publish findings of fact.

Announce Hearing On Sunday Liquor

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 26 (AP)—Chairman Earl Bennett of the Senate Temperance committee announced today the committee would hold a public hearing Tuesday at 2 p. m. on legislation to prohibit Sunday sale of liquor in Maryland.

Proponents and opponents of the measure would be heard at that time, Bennett said.

LONDON, Feb. 27—(Thursday)—German bombers concentrated on a south Wales coastal town in a long, destructive attack last night, and then turned on London early today to inflict new damage and casualties.

A stick of high-explosive bombs demolished ten houses in one London district. Seven serious casualties were removed from the wreckage, while others remained trapped. At least five persons were trapped (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Six Civilians Killed in Riots in Amsterdam; Nazis Threaten Public

AMSTERDAM (via Berlin), Feb. 26 (AP)—Six civilians were killed and a number wounded today in clashes between the police and "disturbers of the peace." It was officially announced tonight.

Strikes and riots brought the imposition of a German military administration upon all the province of North Holland today and the people were warned that violations of orders might result in fifteen-year sentences and even the death penalty.

Strikers were ordered back to work by Thursday, and all parades, demonstrations and assemblies on the streets were forbidden.

Activity by political parties, including the wearing of uniforms and insignia of any kind, was banned in the province.

Soldiers in Charge
The order, issued by the German military commander, Gen. Friedrich Christiansen, applied to Amsterdam, chief city of The Netherlands, but left out Rotterdam and The Hague, outside North Holland province. Military courts will handle violators.

"I have taken over executive power for the province of North Holland in view of the present political situation," the general said. He ordered activity in all public (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Baltimore Trash Collectors May End Strike Today

Thirty-Five Trucks Start Work in City and Officials Are Pleased

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26 (AP)—Three hundred new employees of the Bureau of Street Cleaning gathered in thirty-five trucks today as city officials made new efforts to end the eight-day-old strike of Baltimore's 1,100 trash and garbage collectors.

The new workers, heavily guarded by police, kept at their jobs for a full eight-hour period and bureau heads said they were "highly pleased" by the day's accomplishments.

The active force included 190 men working their first day and 110 who began yesterday. There were fifteen more trucks on the street today than there were yesterday.

Showdown Today
City officials said a showdown may come in the strike tomorrow, when a deadline expires whereby strikers may be restored to their jobs without loss of pay.

It is a pay day at which most of the strikers will have pay for two and one-half days due them for past work.

But city officials said those who return to work at 8 a. m. will receive back pay for seven working days since Feb. 19. This money will be distributed March 6.

George Cobb, chief city engineer, after a conference with bureau heads late today made plans for "putting back to work all city employees who have been out on strike if they report in conformity with the decision of the board of estimates."

Finnegan Still Out
That decision refused demands of strikers that their union leader, Owen Finnegan, be reinstated to his job as a district supervisor in the street cleaning bureau or that the organization be recognized. The strike, third by the street cleaners since November, began after Finnegan's dismissal.

The decision granted pay increases up to ten cents an hour and reinstatement with back pay of all who report for work in the morning.

censorship was contemplated. Asked whether any was contemplated in event of war, he said:

"None that I know of, and I believe my information is as good as anyone's can be."

"This does not mean, in case there should be war, that there would not be a military censorship in certain respects, as there always has been and I presume always will be."

No Strict Censorship
"Censorship in the sense that I believe is feared, of the kind we see abroad—actual censorship of newspapers or other publications—is not contemplated."

After adding that the same held true for radio, Mellett said in reply to a question that any self-imposed censorship by publishers was a different matter.

"Their purpose being to keep the free press of America free," he said, "the publishers certainly can get together and agree not to publish things. That comes from the publishers and not from the government."

"We don't want to say any more about the case now," Ober declared, "because it might hinder our investigation."

Two armed men entered the bank on Dec. 10, and told Cashier George B. Haugh, "this is a hold-up." Assistant Cashier D. L. Brewer and Miss Elizabeth Troupe, a bookkeeper, were also in the bank.

Haugh, who with the other two were held up several years ago, stepped on a burglar alarm signal and the men fled in a stolen car.

The machine was located later in the day but the men escaped. Haugh, who kept a rifle handy after the former holdup, stepped into the street and fired several shots at the bandit car, none taking effect.

named Carl Schloegel were drafted at the same time and sent to the same camp. They went to school together and have been getting mixed up all their lives, so they're probably used to it. It remains to be seen if the army can handle it.

Fort Jackson Solves Problem
Fort Jackson, S. C., has shown the most originality in avoiding name trouble, by a system you might call functional nomenclature. They drew a Private Roscoe Runner, so they made him a runner, and a Private Jesse Driver, so they made him a driver. But you can make every soldier named cook into a chef.

A prospective draftee that turned up in Hot Springs, S. D., was an Indian named Robert Shot-Pieces of Wounded Knee. What's the army going to do with a man like that?

On the whole, the navy has been luckier. The worst complication they've drawn was a sailor named Neptune.

ing his country by making the people lack confidence in their president," he said, facing Wheeler from a few feet away. "We may get into the war although I hope we don't. If we do all this talk is going to do us no good."

It was wrong, the Kentuckian added, for anyone to charge that the president was "trying to get this country into war. I'm taking the president's own words."

He referred again to the chief executive's press conference statement of yesterday, which he interpreted as "urging the British people to fight on." He asked how under such circumstances, America could refuse to go to the rescue of the British "if they are going down."

"What I'm trying to do is be honest with the American people," Wheeler continued. "If this is our war, we ought to go to war. If it's necessary to crush Mr. Hitler and establish the English Channel as our first line of defense, we ought to be honest about it."

"I'm not creating the lack of confidence in the president of the United States. Every statement, every step he's taken has led us down the path to war. That's why I'm against this bill."

Wants Truth Revealed
"I'm sick and tired of seeing the American people film-flammed, whether by Democrats or Republicans. This is a democracy and that means telling the people the truth. If that's being un-American—make the most of it."

An outburst of applause from the galleries brought a warning from the chair when Wheeler said that if the president wanted to "stop these trends" all he had to do was support an amendment to the bill "to keep American boys from dying on foreign soil."

But Chandler had not finished. "You fellows who call yourselves isolationists are going to win some day," he said, his voice rising. "You are going to be completely isolated. They will come over from all directions, and they will bomb your cities and your houses."

Referring obviously to Wheeler's plea for a negotiated peace, he asserted that it was impossible to negotiate with Hitler. One by one the countries who negotiated with him have been swallowed up, he said, adding:

"And you fellows want to negotiate with Hitler. I'm not going to do it. If you do you're fools."

Again there was burst of applause from the spectators.

Wheeler Renews Attack
Wheeler swung into the attack again. He said that President Roosevelt would have been defeated in last year's election if the people had known he would propose the Lease-Lend bill, or if it had been included in the Democratic platform.

Senator Brown (D-Mich.) remonstrated that actually the bill was well grounded in provisions of both the Republican and Democratic platforms calling for assistance to countries which were the victims of aggression. Wheeler said administration efforts to expand that phase of the Democratic platform had been overwhelmingly defeated by the convention's resolutions committee.

In the day, Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee accused opponents of the Lease-Lend bill of fostering war propaganda.

Opposed to War
"There is extreme danger in building up a war sentiment by constantly referring to this as a war bill," he protested. "I don't want to go into any war and I support this bill as the one effective means of avoiding going to war."

In a lengthy exchange with Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and others, George contended that Congress "keeps its hands on the purse strings" in any aid granted a foreign nation.

Taft argued that the president could give away $10,000,000,000 worth of defense materials already voted by Congress but George heatedly denied this.

George said that since the bill requires congressional approval before the president can contract to send new war materials to Britain, Congress retained complete power over the program. Taft argued, however, that money appropriated in the future for the army could be diverted to the purpose of helping England without congressional assent, and Senator Byrnes (D-SC) an administration spokesman, said he would be willing to accept an amendment making it clear that this was not the case.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, entered the debate to uphold the statement made yesterday by the president. It was made, he said, in reply to a reporter's question whether John G. Winant, the new ambassador to London, was taking peace suggestions with him. The president, Barkley said, had answered with perfect propriety that it was not the proper thing for the United States to suggest peace terms to Great Britain.

A Michigan statute outlaws strikes unless a five-day notice of intent has first been filed with the State Labor Mediation Board. A thirty-day "cooling off period" is required if a strike involves the public welfare, and the board has included industries engaged in defense in that category.

Nazis Attacking British Spearhead In Italian Libya

Fascist Command Reports Battle of Mechanized Forces

ROME, Feb. 26—Germany's armed troops and fliers are taking over efforts to blunt the British spearhead driven deep into Italian Libya—the fastest high command indicated today in a report of the first battle between Nazi and British mechanized detachments in that North African colony.

"Enemy trucks and tanks were destroyed," the Italian war bulletin said, "and prisoners were taken without German losses" in this initial contact.

The battleground was described as an area south of Agadabia, 100 miles south of Benghazi and near the spot of the farthest British advance from Egypt toward Tripoli.

Nazis in Action Monday
The Germans were said to have gone into action Monday morning, the very next day after Premier Mussolini had announced their presence in Africa.

(The German communiqué, also reporting the clash, called it a skirmish.)

At the same time the Italian high command told German bombing planes attacking a naval base identified in German dispatches published here as Tobruk, Libya, which the British captured from the Italians Jan. 22.

Two Ships Ablaze
Two 8,000-ton ships were set ablaze, and two "violent explosions and fires" were started in the base itself, the communiqué said.

On other African fronts, the high command indicated the near encirclement of Cherch in Eritrea, stubborn fights in fierce desert conditions against British "pressure" around the besieged oases of Giarabub and Cufra, in Eastern Libya, and "heroic" Italian resistance east of the Juba river in Italian Somaliland.

There was no confirmation in Rome of British reports of the fall of Mogadiscio, Somaliland capital and port.

refused to work, damaged company property and had been guilty of other misconduct during working hours."

In Pittsburgh Van A. Bittner, regional director of the SWOC who has been placed in charge of the union's organization drive in all Bethlehem plants said:

Bittner Blames Company
"The strike was forced upon us by the arbitrary and high-handed action of the company. We hope to have it settled soon."

Philip Murray, CIO chief, declined to comment on the walkout. At the eight-mile long Johnstown, Pa., mills of the company work continued normally without demonstrations.

At the two other big Pennsylvania plants of Bethlehem, work continued as usual.

"Our instructions to our members here are to remain at work until they hear something further," said Howard Curtis, SWOC representative at Bethlehem, Pa., where 21,000 are employed by the steel company.

He added he understood the men were "firmly in sympathy" with workers at the Lackawanna plant, but declined comment on the possibility of any CIO action, saying only "you never know."

Clarence Hobbs, chairman of the SWOC local at the Pottstown, Pa., plant, where 1,500 are employed, asserted "we're taking no action tonight." He said a union meeting may be called for Thursday to consider the New York strike. Peter McCagno, CIO head at Pottstown, said "we're prepared to do anything within forty-eight hours if Bethlehem does not live up to the law of the land."

John Riffe, assistant to Van A. Bittner, director of the SWOC campaign to organize Bethlehem plants, said preparations for the strike have been completed. He added he has been in communication hourly with Bittner, who is in Pittsburgh, but said no developments have occurred to alter the union's decision to cease work.

The SWOC demands a twenty-five per cent wage increase; reinstatement of "indefinitely suspended" workers estimated by the union at between 600 and 1,000; and a labor board election to determine a collective bargaining agent.

Timothy Flynn, union international representative, said the company, which employs 14,000, has asked some discharged workers to return to work and others have been offered salary raises. He predicted the strike "would not last two days."

Equipment Damaged
Flynn declared union members now "laid off" as a result of work stoppage conducted by the SWOC in the coke-oven department had received slips to report for work at 11 o'clock tonight. The company said the men, by work stoppages, had damaged equipment.

Burns, an international vice president of the CIO's United Rubber Workers, asserted if a "possible solution appears we will take steps to avoid any trouble." He added he hoped to find a solution, but said "we are fighting for time."

Position Unchanged
Loren H. Nelles, union international representative, said the SWOC position regarding the strike

Rep. Taber Charges Government Wastes Millions in Defense Work

House floor, Rep. Taber (R-NY) said:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—The House took up a $1,533,439,702 emergency appropriation bill for the army and navy today and almost immediately heard a Republican charge that "unreasonable costs and unreasonable delays" had occurred in the defense program.

The lion's share of the money, $838,321,702 in cash and contract authorizations, would go to the navy for development of its far-flung bases—including establishment of naval aviation lookout posts at Guam and Samoa—to start construction of 400 submarine chasers and other small craft to speed up the delivery of fifty-five destroyers.

A direct appropriation of $695,118,000 was included for the army, chiefly for cantonment construction and other housing. Of that amount $338,880,000 was requested for the completion of 186 projects already under way for which the original estimates were too low.

Ask For Special Fund
To prevent a repetition of the delays and increased costs experienced in the army construction program in the event that the land forces are expanded further, the House Appropriations committee recommended a $15,000,000 special fund to enable the War Department to make advance engineering studies. That sum was estimated as sufficient to plan for a 100 per cent expansion of the present program.

Soon after the bill reached the

Mogadiscio Falls To British Army

Gives Victors Control of 270,000 Square Miles of Territory

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 26 (AP)—The British announced today the capture of Mogadiscio, capital of Italian Somaliland, and unofficially claimed effective control of all its 270,000 square miles, picturing it as the first entire colony to be knocked out of the Fascist empire.

Mogadiscio, a city of 55,000, fell to British Imperial troops who had thrust forward 400 miles from British Kenya, and other columns were declared to have struck on sixty miles up the Juba river to entrap the main Italian forces between the captured towns of Gelib and Brava and cut their last road of retreat.

Take Many Prisoners
Italian prisoners already in hand were put by "conservative estimate" at 3,000.

Seizure of vast quantities of guns and ammunition was announced. British sources said the country north of Mogadiscio was of such little importance that the possession of the capital itself—alone with the substantial defeat of all the active Fascist forces in the colony—meant possession of Somaliland.

Too, the British campaign had achieved another objective: "To seal the Indian Ocean side of Mussolini's empire."

May Attack Addis Ababa
From Mogadiscio, the British now are in position to strike inland toward Addis Ababa, but such a move was regarded here as doubtful because the heavy rains begin in March.

In Eritrea, said the British middle eastern command, British imperial troops striking at Cheren, which dominates the approaches to the Colonial capital of Asmara, have made "satisfactory progress."

In Ethiopia native insurgents and their British Allies were declared to be pushing on in Goffjam province and to have forced the Italians to evacuate a series of posts.

The British field victory in Somaliland was supported by bombers and warships, which heavily bombed Italian coastal positions.

and private enterprises to be resumed to "the fullest extent" by Thursday, warned that provoking strikes or discontinuance of work "will be punishable by imprisonment of fifteen years," and said that if violations occurred in connection with army enterprises—"to which all vital industries belong"—capital punishment might follow.

Province Quiet
The province was quiet tonight, and Dutch newspapermen expressed the opinion that the strikers would return to work in accordance with General Christiansen's proclamation.

The strikes started among municipal workers and then spread to private concerns.

These demonstrations were among a series which broke out after recent clashes in Amsterdam in Dutch various factions, including Dutch Nazis, were involved. The German authorities blamed Jews for the disorders.

remains unchanged, despite the presence of defense commission representatives. Only the company's acceptance of the union's proposal to arbitrate its proposals will avert a walkout, he added.

Several union members were "sworn in" by the Lackawanna board of police commissioners to control and keep order on their own picket lines. At SWOC headquarters, strike committees appointed captains and leaders to supervise picket lines.

Lieutenant Killed
SONOL, Calif., Feb. 26 (AP)—Second Lieut. W. S. Rutherford was killed and Second Lieut. H. G. McDonald critically injured in the crash of an army plane today. Both officers were from Moffett Field.

Germans Increase Tempo of Attack On British Ships

Report Sinking of Merchant Ship and a Patrol Boat

BERLIN, Feb. 26 (AP)—Germans emphasized the heightened tempo of their sea warfare today with accounts of new blows against British shipping and hailed reported action of Nazi land forces in Libya as a turning point in favor of the Axis in Africa.

With more than 250,000 tons of British ships declared already sunk "in the past few days," the following additional achievements were claimed today:

Sinking of a British destroyer by a Nazi speed boat off southeast England and destruction of an 8,000-ton armored merchant ship and a British patrol boat by submarines.

Three Cargo Ships Attacked
Three British cargo ships totaling 21,000 tons bombed and set afire by the Luftwaffe northwest of Ireland early today, and damage to a 10,000-ton British munitions ship and another merchant vessel of equal size in a raid—time unspecified—on British-occupied Tobruk, Libya.

To these official reports were added accounts by DNB, official news agency, saying another British destroyer was set afire, at Tobruk yesterday by a plane swooping within forty feet to drop its bomb; a 5,000-ton ship sunk by bombs in the western Mediterranean, and a British outpost boat sunk today by a German patrol plane off Peterhead, on the east Scottish coast.

New Submarines in Action
Newly released submarines commanded by virtual novices alone sank 192,300 tons of convoyed shipping from Sunday noon until Monday night, according to information reaching Berlin.

(A London naval spokesman, disputing German claims, declared yesterday "nothing extraordinary" has happened in recent sea warfare.)

A third man, brakeman William P. Christian of Baltimore, was reported missing immediately after the crash, but was located later.

The wreck occurred when a freight train headed for Washington crashed into the rear of another train, stopped on the tracks.

The engineer of the moving train was crushed beneath his engine and killed instantly. The fireman of this train was injured when he leaped from his engine.

The engineer who was killed was identified by the railroad company as Samuel E. Snyder, 56, of Bartholomew, Frederick County, Md., with the railroad since 1901. The injured fireman was brought to casualty hospital where his name was given as Andrew Duffy, 48, Baltimore. His condition was reported undetermined. He had been with the company since 1915.

The engine of the moving train and the caboose of the stationary train rolled from the tracks, down a fifteen-foot embankment to the street. They caught fire.

An oil tanker, which had been attached to the moving train, was also knocked off the tracks. Flames for a time threatened this car and police cleared all spectators from the area, fearing there would be an explosion. However, the blaze was brought under control.

Jonathan Sleeman Is Released from Hospital

Jonathan Sleeman, Froeburg, a member of the Allegheny county delegation to the Maryland legislature, was released from Allegheny hospital yesterday.

Sleeman had been a patient there since February 15 when he entered the hospital for injuries suffered when a car struck him at Baltimore and Liberty streets, this city.

He suffered a badly torn left ear, severe body bruises and a jaw fracture.

Blackout Ordered
The Rumanian government ordered a complete blackout throughout the country, while Sofia was under a partial blackout, enforced since last night.

Bulgarian troops set up more anti-aircraft batteries on the heights overlooking the capital, to reinforce those already mounted on a few buildings in the city.

Police charged several persons who were arrested with plotting sabotage of Sofia's water supply, and seized quantities of explosives and chemicals they said were intended to blast the waterworks.

Germans Increase Tempo of Attack On British Ships

Report Sinking of Merchant Ship and a Patrol Boat

BERLIN, Feb. 26 (AP)—Germans emphasized the heightened tempo of their sea warfare today with accounts of new blows against British shipping and hailed reported action of Nazi land forces in Libya as a turning point in favor of the Axis in Africa.

With more than 250,000 tons of British ships declared already sunk "in the past few days," the following additional achievements were claimed today:

Sinking of a British destroyer by a Nazi speed boat off southeast England and destruction of an 8,000-ton armored merchant ship and a British patrol boat by submarines.

Mrs. Winant Plans Active Service In New Role of Ambassador's Lady

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Service Writer
NEW YORK—Mrs. John G. Winant, wife of the new ambassador to Great Britain, is sure England will win the war.

"Right will always win out," she told me during an interview at her New York hotel. "The English are defending democracy and everything

Mrs. John G. Winant, wife of the Ambassador to Britain
"I wouldn't go if I didn't think I could be of service"

a Christian would want in these days."

And then this slim, New York-born wife of a former New England governor added these revealing words:

"I hope to be of service there. I wouldn't go if I didn't think I could be. I want to help in whatever way I can find to help—to be the most use possible."

Not a word to reflect the pomp and circumstance that attends an ambassador's position, even in wartime. No plans for a new ambassadorial wardrobe, and no plans yet for living quarters in London, where she plans to go in a month or two.

Retains Her Youth

Constance Russell Winant stems from Scotch and English stock, and often is mistaken for an English woman.

She seems surprisingly young for the mother of a married daughter and two sons in their teens. There are no deep lines in her face, no gray in her light brown hair. She talks with a mixture of reserve and eagerness and spills a quick river of words when she is interested. She likes pretty clothes well enough, but I doubt if they mean a great deal in her life.

When I saw her she wore a plum-colored, a rope of pearls that wrapped three times round her throat, and two diamond-ruby-emerald clips—one on her forehead and the other in her hair. The plum-colored hat that lay nearby was trimmed with plum, ruby and emerald ostrich tips.

An Aviation Fan

The ambassador's lady has traveled a lot and is a flying fan, though not a pilot. Last December, when Mr. Winant inaugurated the Social Security hospitals in Peru, she flew there and back—13,000 miles in nine days. She has also covered a lot of territory in Europe and India.

She expects to fly to England—but not at once. Her plans are to have the ambassador precede her, and join him in London about the end of March or early April. Before she goes, she wants a holiday with her children—Mrs. Carlos Volanda, wife of a young Venezuelan scientist and sons John G. and Rivington Russell, who still are in school.

Mrs. Winant married Mr. Winant, also a native New Yorker, just after his discharge from World War air service in '19. She has followed her husband's steady climb through the New Hampshire House of Representatives, Senate and governorship to the chairmanship of the Social Security Board and the directorship of the International Labor office, which he has just resigned. In the past two decades she has been busy keeping her self informed on his jobs: problems, running the Winant's big colonial house on the outskirts of Concord, N. H., mothering the three children and doing a good deal of church and civic work.

Her only hobby, she says, is her Edgerstone Kennels, where she raises Scotties and West Highland white terriers. One of the terriers drew a "best of breed" at the recent Westminster Kennel Club Show.

been married for one year. Soon after I married, I realized that I did not love my husband, but was still in love with my childhood sweetheart. I have learned to love my husband during the past year, and I know he loves me.

My childhood sweetheart, D., also loves me and wants me to marry him some day when he's able to support me. He doesn't live in this town, but we correspond once in a while. He doesn't think it's right since I'm married, although my husband knows about it, and would give me up in a minute if he thought someone else could make me happier.

I'm so undecided. I know I love my husband, but I can't help but think of D. all day long. Should I divorce my husband and wait for D. or should I go on living with my husband and forget D.? I am working and could take care of myself.

H. B.

My dear girl, you don't know when you're well off. You tell me you're in love with your husband, and yet you persist in pulling the foundation from under your happy marriage by wool-gathering after your childhood sweetheart. Don't be silly; everyone living has vagrant fancies, such as "If I'd only married Jim." Or, "Life would have been a Paradise if I'd only married Mary." But that sort of thing is just about as illusive as cigarette smoke.

Thank heaven, you've discovered you're in love with your husband, and drop chasing phantoms in the shape of childhood sweethearts. An excellent remedy would be for you to have a baby.

EVELESS EDEN

by ALLEN EPPES

SYNOPSIS
BILL LATHAM, young novelist, after having been jilted a few seconds before he was to have been married, and JOEL RANDALL, his older cousin, go to an old North Carolina mountain cabin, once owned by Joel's late uncle, for a vacation.
EVE ALLGOOD, pretty young school teacher, meets the cousins when her car runs into Joel's vegetable garden.
YESTERDAY: Eve tells Bill that she thinks he is high-handed in driving her home when Joel put his bid in first.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN
"GOOD! I'm glad you're not mad at me," Bill told Eve.
"But no more high-handed methods with that nice cousin of yours. I don't like it."
"And stop saying, 'yes'm'—even if I am a school teacher."
Bill chuckled. "Come Whit-sun-tilde, or whatever it is, you'll be falling for old Joel," he said.
"Why do you call him old?"
"Oh, just a term of affection. He's really only two years older than I am—but ever since we were kids he's acted as though he were ages older. Just Joel's way—you know, sort of born old."
"I rather suspect there was a reason for his taking that attitude toward you."
"Woman's intuition coming to the surface! Go on. Why are you suspecting such a thing?"
"Simply because I've an idea you were quite a problem child."
"Gosh!" Bill laughed. "However did you guess it?"
Eve didn't bother to answer. Instead she said: "Here's where we turn off for The Gap."

Presently Bill was driving Joel's car along the one short street of Hickory Gap—an unpaved way that passed between a half dozen buildings: a church, a general store, a filling station, a tiny post office, and a couple of other structures that looked like warehouses. Over everything lay the tranquillity of a dying day.
And as Eve watched a number of children scamper out of the way of the car, a cat dash across the road, and a hound dog stick its tail between its legs and run for cover, she felt oddly disturbed. Her thoughts suddenly flew far away from the mountains. She was thinking about a man named Carey Watts. She was thinking how like Carey was this Bill Latham. Same coloring, same high-handed way with people. Charming, a little frightening at times; so sure of himself, and not caring a great deal about how he handled other people, just so long as he could have his own way. Carey, who might now be her husband, but for a lot of unhappy circumstances. Carey, who felt that marriage without money was bound to end on the rocks; a man who thought marriage a glamorous thing that needed the nourishment of a generous inflow of currency to keep it that way.

Eve closed her eyes for a moment—remembering a country club terrace, a night of moonlight and roses, and Carey standing close beside her.

"There's no use trying to go on, Eve," he was saying.
"Why not?" Her voice had sounded strangely unfamiliar.

"Now that my savings are gone," Carey replied, "and your father's lost everything, we have all the odds against us. We'd probably be at each other's throats in no time at all. And I couldn't bear that. Eve, I couldn't subject you to a life of poverty and struggling with a man who hasn't a penny to his name."

How magnanimous he had sounded. And how noble she had thought him—although she would have married him then and there. But she mustn't think of those times. She must forget the country club background, the swift roadster that had been hers, the beautiful clothes, and all the bright and shining plans her father had made for her, for her mother and for himself. No, she must put all those things out of her mind, and try her best to feel that everything had worked out for the good of all concerned, even for the girl Carey had married, the girl whose father had not lost his fortune.

"Why so quiet all of a sudden?" Bill asked.
"Just thinking," said Eve. "Sorry. Something made me think of the might-have-beens, and I went off into a fog."

"Want to tell me about them—the might-have-beens?"
"Not now," said Eve. "Later, perhaps."

"Straight ahead for your house?"
"Yes," said Eve. "Then turn left."

Presently they were coming to a standstill near a picket fence that had recently been white-washed.

Flowers were blooming in a yard that was under process of being rejuvenated. Honeysuckle vines were climbing up to the second story windows of the house; and from the rear came the sound of many chickens.

"They seem to be excited about something," Bill said.
"They're always like that when mother goes out to feed them," Eve said.

She bent down and put her slipper on.
Bill jumped from the car and held out his hands to her.

"Careful of that injured ankle," he warned.

"It's not so bad," said Eve. "Just a bit stiff—and the shoe is a close fit. That first-aid job of your cousin's was a good one." She stepped gingerly to the ground. "Come on, let's go around the house. We'll probably find mother with chickens to the right of her, chickens to the left of her, and chickens in her hair."

And they did.
Mrs. Allgood, small like Eve herself, and with hair just silvering a little, was sitting in an old, shuck-bottomed chair. She wore a pink and blue gingham house dress, and the personification of neatness, and chickens were swarming all around her. A perky little hen sat upon her shoulder, and a bright-plumed rooster was standing on his tiptoes, helping himself to food from Mrs. Allgood's lap.

"Hello, darling!" Eve called.
Mrs. Allgood looked up and saw the two young people approaching.

"Eve, you're limping!" she cried.
"Oh, I just knew you'd meet with an accident sooner or later."

"Oh, it's nothing, Mother," Eve assured. She led Bill over to where her mother sat. "This is Mr. Latham, Mother," she said. "Mr. Latham, my mother."

Mrs. Allgood smiled at Bill.
"Latham," she said. "It seems to me I've heard that name somewhere."

"I have," Eve said. "It was on the cover of that slightly naughty book I read last week."

"Oh!" said Mrs. Allgood. "You mean you wrote the book, Mr. Latham?"

"Yes, I did," Bill replied. "But please don't judge the author by his books!"

"Oh, I didn't read the book, really. I only peeped at parts of it." "And that was sufficient?" "I don't mean that at all, only I—"

"What Mother is trying to tell you," Eve broke in, "is that she just can't seem to get over having a spade called a spade—especially in print."

"I see," said Bill.
"But you mustn't take my reactions to things like that too seriously, Mr. Latham," Mrs. Allgood got up, sending chickens fluttering off in all directions. "I'm not a prude. I just don't seem to be able to adjust myself to the frankness of books and people. I'll get over it in time."

"Don't!" said Bill. "You're alright just as you are."
"Thank you," said Mrs. Allgood. "That's mighty nice of you."

Picard Has One Stroke Lead in Golf Tourney

Shoots Brilliant Round of 66 Trimming Par by Five Strokes

By LARRY ROLLINS
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—Henry Picard, the golfing star from Hershey, Pa., led a wholesale assault on par in the $5,000 St. Petersburg Open today with a first round 66.

Altogether, 35 golfers gave par 71 a shelling, but a great nine-hole stretch of 30 earned Picard a one-stroke margin.

Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, Chick Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., all cracked out 67s.

Jimmy Turnesa of New York, Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., and Clarence Dozer of Sarasota, Fla., scored 68s and there was a nine-way tie at 69.

Harold Jug McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., winner of the Thomasville Open last week, remained in a contending position at the 69 spot, which he shared with Ted Turner of Clementon, N. J.; Leland Gibson of Kansas City; Henry Bontempo of Springfield, Mass.; E. J. Harrison of Chicago; Stanley Horne of Montreal; Teri Johnson of Norristown, Pa.; Ky Laffoon of Chicago, and an amateur, Mel Demaris of Haverhill, Mass.

No less than eighteen others, including National Open Champion Byron Nelson of Toledo and Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., winner here last year, shot 70s, and pars were a dime a dozen.

Picard, who will stich his affiliation to Oklahoma City April 1, made the story, however, by clipping five strokes off par in four consecutive holes. Included in that spurge was an eagle three on the fifth, where he clipped into the cup from a bunker.

His first-nine 39 was just a stroke off the National P. G. A. record.

"The funny part of it," laughed the winner, "has been several strokes lower except for putts that just wouldn't drop."

Dragons Defeat Candy Kitchen

Cumberland's Dragons for the second time in three days took a half game over the Celanese Local five in the Interstate Basketball League by trimming Sam's Candy Kitchen, 47 to 36, last night on the Central Y.M.C.A. floor to sweep the season series.

The Dragons need only a victory Friday night over the Junior Chamber of Commerce to assure them of at least a tie for the crown while the Locals must defeat both the Jaycees and the Keyser Pepsi-Colas to force a playoff.

The Dragons led all the way in scoring their fifteenth win of the year. The quarter scores stood 14-7; 23-15 and 31-17. Ted Rowan and Lou Bell shared scoring honors for the winners with a dozen points each while Roy Whiteman tallied the same number for the Candy Kitchen.

Former

had momentarily forgotten pending repairs of the utility lines. When Mr. and Mrs. Kunzler left their home in Tulsa, Okla., early that November morning the weather was serene and beautiful. Once over the border in Texas, a driving rain started to slash the highway and by the time the couple reached Amarillo things were in, to put it bluntly, an awful mess.

The rain was accompanied by a gale followed by freezing cold. Roads, buildings and trees were a state of ice. Wires were strung everywhere. Large trees crumpled under the fury of the driving wind and the weight of the ice. Present-day civilization, a polite synonym for utility services, was at a standstill. There was no light, no water, and no gas.

City in Darkness
Surrounded by inky darkness, Mr. and Mrs. Kunzler, who might almost have been termed honeymooners at the time since they were only married last August 21, drove up to one of Amarillo's best hotels, the one which had boldly advertised the comfort it dished out for its guests all along the route into town.

Mrs. Kunzler, being a very polite and considerate person, only hinted at this, but it must have been a treat and a delight to see one of those urbane, unperturbed hotel desk clerks in utter confusion. You know how they are in swanky hotels, smooth as silk with a glittering smile and usually attired in lavender shirts, a mauve tie and scented with lilac water.

More than one sturdy customer has quailed before the awful perfection of polished hotel desk clerks who give the impression that they can rear back and perform a miracle as easily as they flick a speck of dust off their immaculate suits.

Miracle Was Needed

Well, here was a case where a miracle was in order. That hotel was up against it. It was as cold as an icebox. There was no elevator service and a person almost had to have a girdle to wiggle up those narrow, treacherous stairways. There was no water and the kitchen force had to melt ice to make coffee. Candles placed here and there flickered and gave a spot of light in those dismal surroundings. Mrs. Kunzler did not kick about the food in describing it but she certainly damned it with faint praise. A New Yorker would have undoubtedly perished in the place. This would have been one instance when an irate customer, unfamiliar with the situation, would have been perfectly justified in stamping down to the front desk and stating in succinct terms that "the service in this hotel is lousy."

Everything was at a complete standstill and a chill was on the place.

Iceberg Was Beautiful
Despite the havoc created by the ice, Mrs. Kunzler said it made a cold, beautiful sight although residents found it difficult to see anything attractive about it. It was especially beautiful to see the sunlight or the headlights of automobiles flashing on streets, houses and trees sheathed in frozen-crust, she said.

Texas, she said, did not complain overly much concerning the unfortunate incident and the line of thought most commonly heard expressed was, "imagine, how the British must feel in those black-outs."

The darkness, of course, was intense at night with all electric power at a standstill. For three days, Amarillo was a city lighted by candlepower and old-fashioned oil lamps.

"Some of the Texans tell some wild stories," Mrs. Kunzler observed. "One hears the older inhabitants tell stories of gun fights and people hanging out upstairs windows with shotguns that happened as recently as fifty years ago."

The Kunzlers' three days in Texas were something to remember but Mrs. Kunzler hastened to explain that this was extraordinary and that the West was really delightful in every respect.

Mrs. Kunzler said she enjoyed living in Tulsa very much and was impressed with the general cleanliness of western cities. There is perhaps quite an object lesson in Mrs. Kunzler's story for Texans, hotel clerks and people who grouse when their water pipes freeze up. Regarding the former, it just goes to show one can never tell and that one shouldn't be too smug about the situation. People who fume over a frozen water pipe should have been in Amarillo last November.

Mrs. Kunzler is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holmes, of 509 Dunbar drive, but expects to return to her home in Tulsa soon. Mr. Kunzler, an engineer, was unable to accompany his wife on her visit to her parents.

popularity, Miss Walsh says a constantly growing number of Cumberland people closely follow the New York Times Sunday book supplement and ask for the books recommended therein.

Good Books Now Demanded
The "best sellers," of course, are widely read, but in recent years more and more people are reading really worthwhile books, she said. By and large, the popularity of a book depends on the ballyhoo that precedes it, she said, but of late people frequently ask for volumes in which they become interested for other reasons.

Popularity of technical books is also jumping rapidly. Books on the war or related subjects are also in great demand these days, Miss Walsh said.

"Mein Kampf" is one of the most thoroughly read books in Cumberland today, she added.

Local C. & P. Employee Receives Service Award

Council exists for the purpose of serving troops. It is the business center of all Council activity.

Thirty-one years of experience in dealing with scouting program routine have made the local council office an effective instrument for service to scouts and to scouts. Through it, you have available the entire experience and helpfulness of the National Council and its staff, which supervises the scout movement all over the United States. To it come the reports of all the districts, so that it has available at all times the record of every program and activity planned and carried on by the Council.

The scout executive serves as the secretary of the executive board and the council committees. In the council office is found the history of every boy who enters scouting, his record during his official connection with the movement, his advancement, and his progress. Facilities are available to follow him as he grows up into citizenship. The record of every scout, including the scoutmasters, troop committees, council members, and merit badge counselors, is kept on file.

Executive Is Busy Man
In the council headquarters are developed the programs of the various committees which serve to stimulate advancement and activities. All committees meet with the scout executive from time to time. The executive also travels extensively throughout the whole area to advise the general public and Scouts concerning the scouting program. His services and traveling expenses are provided for this fund.

Mr. Kunzler said she enjoyed living in Tulsa very much and was impressed with the general cleanliness of western cities. There is perhaps quite an object lesson in Mrs. Kunzler's story for Texans, hotel clerks and people who grouse when their water pipes freeze up. Want Old Legislation
If the new bills are approved the council wants the old legislation to stand.

The delegation took the bills under advisement.

At another hearing yesterday, the delegates agreed to decide today on a senate bill requiring Allegheny county corporations to pay their employees weekly instead of semi-monthly. A majority of the delegation indicated they approve the bill.

J. Millard Tawes, state comptroller, has informed Robert Jackson, clerk of courts here, that arrangements have been made to assign field representatives of the state comptroller's office to various sections and communities throughout the state for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in filing state income tax returns for the calendar year of 1940.

Jackson said this week that a representative will be at the court house here daily from March 3 to April 15 and suggests that taxpayers take advantage of this service as soon after March 3 as possible, thereby eliminating a last minute rush, such as was experienced here last year.

A field man will be at Frostburg National Bank March 12; Luke and 15; Lonaconing (Liberty Trust Company) March 13; Barton (First National Bank) March 13; Luke (Devon Club) March 10 and 11; Westernport (City building) March 6 and 7 and at the court house in Oakland March 3, 4 and 5.

Officers of the Moose band were installed last night at the Moose home by Gov. George Erhling, of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose.

Those installed were Charles McCullough past president; J. G. Humbertson, president; Frank Byers, vice president; W. L. Brunk, secretary; Ralph Baird, business manager; Joseph Morton, director; F. J. Byers, assistant director; and Miss Winifred Muir, librarian.

Suit Is Filed For Back Rent

Carrie, Lorraine and Harold E. Eisenberg, trustees of the estate of Samuel Eisenberg, yesterday filed suit for rent covering the month's of January and February 1941 on the premises at 135 Baltimore street against Lawrence Peskin.

Amount claimed according to the circuit court entry is $400 per month. The Baltimore street address was the former business location of the shoe concern until it was destroyed by fire a year ago. Mr. Peskin moved his business to a new location but once the former location was repaired the plaintiffs declared that the defendant was legally obligated to return to the former site.

Similar suits involving the August and September, 1940, rentals have already been tried in court with verdicts for the plaintiffs. Another suit covering October, November and December is still pending.

Edward J. Ryan and Charles Z. Heskett represent the joint-trustees.

Local Chiropractors Oppose Bill To Prohibit Advertising

A delegation of Western Maryland chiropractors yesterday went to Annapolis to attend a hearing before the Senate Judiciary committee on Senate bill 172 which would make it illegal for chiropractors to advertise.

Those who attended from this section were Doctors C. Oscar Hall, Mountain Lake Park, Dr. Adam Baer, Frostburg, and Harold Malin, Orville Swartley, G. X. Barry, John A. Crist and A. N. Golladay, all of Cumberland. These practicing chiropractors have come out strongly against the passage of the measure and are backing a move now being made to kill the proposed legislation.

Patient To Blame When Diet Fails, Physician States

'Stick-to-it-iveness' Is Necessary for Treatment of Obesity

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Every "cure in a while" said a doctor, "I meet a patient whom I have not seen for some time, and I am astonished to find that he or she has stayed on a diet I prescribed five or six years before."

"I don't know what surprises me the most in these encounters—the rare constancy of this example of human nature, or the excellent results that have been obtained by this persistence."

Nowhere in all dietetic treatment is it more necessary to impress this on a patient than in the management of overweight by a reducing diet.

There is probably no condition to the guidance of which medical men direct their attention that records a larger percentage of failures than the treatment of obesity.

And there is no other condition in which good results can be obtained with such certainty and mathematical precision.

Must Stick to It

So we must assume that the fault in most cases lies with the laxity of poor, weak human nature. The doctor who arranges a good diet for his overweight patient and who is told it doesn't work knows the patient is lying. He doesn't have to guess, he knows.

There is, of course, a very respectable percentage of cases that take the matter seriously enough to seek a doctor's advice and follow the advice long enough to lose a considerable amount of weight. Then they are unwilling to stay on a maintenance diet, and failure results because after a short time the regimen wears them, and the scale rapidly shows a return to the same or larger figures than in the beginning.

Almost as common a cause of

HIDE YOUR INTENTIONS
ONE fundamental of strategy, in any kind of contest, is to conceal your intentions, to keep the enemy from knowing what you are preparing to do. Carried to high degree, this amounts to deliberately misleading him and making him definitely count on you for something entirely different from your true plan. If you can make him expect just the reverse of what you intend to try, then you have attained the zenith in this respect—or the pinnacle, if you prefer that term.

This was in a duplicate tournament, and South didn't like to see the opponents get away with playing the hand at their little 2-Heart contract, hence his 2-Spade call which kept the bidding from dying.

North was a demure little lady whose husband is known as one of the game's stars, but whose opponents did not expect anything very tricky from her. So, after East led the heart 9 to the J and A, she went to the dummy with the diamond 3 to the Q and led the spade 6 to the Q and K. East knew she was trying to drop failure in reducing as lack of stick-to-it-iveness is lack of intelligence. In order to reduce intelligently you will have to study the caloric values of foods. You do not have to count the calories, but you have to know them in a general way.

The object is to lose fat, not muscle. Don't lose strength. So take some exercise and take daily protein. Reducing on orange juice alone is not healthy.

The most difficult part of a reduction cure is the beginning. It takes time for the stomach to adjust itself to smaller amounts, and therefore it grumbles at first. These are hunger contractions caused by taking less food. Pay no attention to them. They only last the first few days.

Reducing Diet

Breakfast: Fresh fruit in season—one serving of apple, blackberries, grapefruit, melon, orange, peach, pineapple, raspberries or strawberries; bread—one slice of whole wheat or rye; butter—one level teaspoon; milk—1/4 cup with beverage—coffee, tea, Postum, Sanka.

Lunch and Supper: Meat or fish—1/4 pound of lean meat or fresh fish, boiled, broiled or roasted—no gravy; or three times weekly: eggs—two, boiled or poached; or cheese—1/4 pound of cottage or pot cheese; vegetables—as desired: asparagus, string beans, beets, beet greens, brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, chicory, cucumbers, escarole, eggplant, lettuce, onions, canned peas, radishes, spinach, squash, tomatoes, tomato juice, turnips; fresh fruit in season—one serving of apple, blackberries, grapefruit, melon, peach, pineapple, raspberries, strawberries; bread—one slice of whole wheat or rye; butter—one level teaspoon; milk—one cup or buttermilk; beverage—coffee, tea, Postum, Sanka.

Use a little salt in the preparation of the food. Add no salt after serving. Vinegar may be used with salads.

Approximately 1,000 calories.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Commenting on the voice values from this project, Jessie M. Parker, Iowa Superintendent of Public Instruction, said: "The system works best when the teacher and pupils speak distinctly and not too loud. Thus they all acquire desirable speech habits that will stay with them."

Very Successful
Though it is expensive we need to keep in mind the good it does, the ideals which it lifts aloft. The state of Iowa says through this program, "Every child is a precious personality, an individual who deserves opportunity, despite his physical handicap."

So speaks the state or local school district which provides special classes for those who can't be in the regular classroom. My readers also ought to know that in many states there are provisions for free home education of the physically handicapped persons of any age. Those interested should write to the Department of Education at their state capital to find if their state has such provision and how to make use of it.

THE DAILY STORY

THE FRIEND

About a Daring Young Man Who Set the Stage for His Own Murder and Then Dared the Murderer To Fire the Shot

By WALLACE K. NORMAN

Larry Radcliff, world famous theatrical producer, was spectacular, cynical, and possessed of many bitter enemies. Therefore, it was no great surprise when a mysterious note informed him he would be murdered on a certain Wednesday night.

"That's What Worries Me."

Radcliff at once called the police, but refused to allow the party he was giving in celebration of his latest musical hit. The date of the party being the Wednesday designated in the death threat, the police cajoled, blustered, begged, but Radcliff remained adamant. The thing appealed to his love of theatrics. Moreover, he wouldn't be bluffed by some cheap fourflusher bearing a petty grudge.

In consequence, on the Wednesday evening in question, Inspector Mike Mills addressed a hand-picked group of detectives in his office. Final instructions received, the cops filed out. Only Lt. King remained behind. The lieutenant regarded his superior sitting in glum silence, his lean jaw pressed down on the starched bosom of his dress shirt.

"Don't worry, inspector," King admonished. "Radcliff isn't dead yet."

Inspector Mills looked up. "But, I am worried, lieutenant," he said slowly. "Larry's the best friend I ever had. We grew up together, knocked around together. Then I went on the force, and he stepped into the show business—"

King broke in. "All the more reason not to worry," he replied sardonically. "Guys like Radcliff don't die easy. Only the good die young."

The inspector lifted his angular face. Deep, conflicting emotions struggled there.

"Yes," he said heavily, "the good die young. Larry's a genius, he's brilliant. But he's hurt a lot of people. I know of at least a dozen who'd probably like to see him dead."

"That's what worries me," the inspector stood up, his eyes traveling to the neat metal calendar on his desk. He shuddered.

"First Carolyn, and now—and now, Larry," he mumbled. Suddenly aware that King was watching him, he hastily explained. "My daughter died a year ago tonight," he said, and his voice shook.

"I remember, sir," the lieutenant nodded quietly.

"She worked too hard," the older man mumbled on. "Larry tried to keep her from it. But he had started her in his show. In gratitude, Carolyn slaved for him. She wore herself out, her nerves were shattered. She couldn't sleep," his voice quivered, hesitated, then went on. "And she took an overdose of sleeping powders."

Inspector Mills turned his back, slowly picked up his hat.

"Let's get over to that party, lieutenant," he said. "I don't want to lose Larry, too."

The elaborate floor show arranged by Radcliff for the entertainment of his friends closed to thunderous applause. The lights in the Casino, which had rented dimmed. A pencil of white spotlighted Radcliff's table. He rose, sleek, smiling, urbanely sardonic.

"My good friends," he addressed the bejeweled crowd. "for once I have failed my public. As a spectacular finale to a spectacular career" he paused for effect, "I was to have been murdered tonight."

A gasp ran through the Casino. "But," he continued, "the murderer has missed his cue. I am very much alive, and shall continue in that happy state for years to come."

Radcliff suddenly buckled in the middle and sprawled headlong across his table.

Inspector Mills sprang forward frantically. But he was too late. The murderer had not missed his cue. A small, neat bullet hole gaped in the gleaming front of Radcliff's shirt.

Inspector Mike Mills marshaled his men and went frantically to work. Each guest was searched, none allowed to leave. Every inch of the Casino was covered by practiced eyes. But nothing was found. A man had been shot, yet no one had heard the gun fired. Moreover, the weapon and the unknown murderer who had wielded it had vanished in a split-second through locked and heavily guarded doors.

Eight hours later, grim, empty handed, the inspector drove Lt. King back to headquarters. He drove as a man in a stupor, once swerving at the last moment to avoid a collision with a taxi. The sudden change of course threw the lieutenant heavily against his superior.

"Sorry," he apologized.

Mills drove on in fogged silence as if alone in a dead world. At headquarters, they silently entered the inspector's office. On the desk sat the neat metal calendar. The date had not been changed, nor did Mills change it. He sank down, burying his face in his hands. The lieutenant hesitated, then cleared his throat.

"Mike," he said, "when you swerved to miss that taxi, my hand bumped against the gun in your coat pocket." He paused. "But I happen to know you always carry your service revolver in your hip pocket."

The inspector's head came up slowly, his face dazed, bewildered. King's glance flicked to the metal calendar.

"Last night was the anniversary of your daughter's death," he paused again. "Do you really believe her death was accidental, Mike?"

The inspector stood up. "No," he said after a long moment. "She committed suicide. And my best friend drove her to it. She was madly in love with him. He toyed with her, taunted her, then finally threw her over."

Inspector Mills drew a revolver from his coat pocket. It was not a regulation police gun. Ballistics could not have traced the weapon to a police officer. The gun was equipped with a close fitting, modern silencer. He handed the instrument of destruction to the lieutenant.

"I couldn't have missed him," he said. "I had the table next to him. I saw to that."—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

THE DAILY STORY

THE FRIEND

About a Daring Young Man Who Set the Stage for His Own Murder and Then Dared the Murderer To Fire the Shot

By WALLACE K. NORMAN

Larry Radcliff, world famous theatrical producer, was spectacular, cynical, and possessed of many bitter enemies. Therefore, it was no great surprise when a mysterious note informed him he would be murdered on a certain Wednesday night.

"That's What Worries Me."

Radcliff at once called the police, but refused to allow the party he was giving in celebration of his latest musical hit. The date of the party being the Wednesday designated in the death threat, the police cajoled, blustered, begged, but Radcliff remained adamant. The thing appealed to his love of theatrics. Moreover, he wouldn't be bluffed by some cheap fourflusher bearing a petty grudge.

In consequence, on the Wednesday evening in question, Inspector Mike Mills addressed a hand-picked group of detectives in his office. Final instructions received, the cops filed out. Only Lt. King remained behind. The lieutenant regarded his superior sitting in glum silence, his lean jaw pressed down on the starched bosom of his dress shirt.

"Don't worry, inspector," King admonished. "Radcliff isn't dead yet."

Inspector Mills looked up. "But, I am worried, lieutenant," he said slowly. "Larry's the best friend I ever had. We grew up together, knocked around together. Then I went on the force, and he stepped into the show business—"

King broke in. "All the more reason not to worry," he replied sardonically. "Guys like Radcliff don't die easy. Only the good die young."

The inspector lifted his angular face. Deep, conflicting emotions struggled there.

"Yes," he said heavily, "the good die young. Larry's a genius, he's brilliant. But he's hurt a lot of people. I know of at least a dozen who'd probably like to see him dead."

"That's what worries me," the inspector stood up, his eyes traveling to the neat metal calendar on his desk. He shuddered.

"First Carolyn, and now—and now, Larry," he mumbled. Suddenly aware that King was watching him, he hastily explained. "My daughter died a year ago tonight," he said, and his voice shook.

"I remember, sir," the lieutenant nodded quietly.

"She worked too hard," the older man mumbled on. "Larry tried to keep her from it. But he had started her in his show. In gratitude, Carolyn slaved for him. She wore herself out, her nerves were shattered. She couldn't sleep," his voice quivered, hesitated, then went on. "And she took an overdose of sleeping powders."

Inspector Mills turned his back, slowly picked up his hat.

"Let's get over to that party, lieutenant," he said. "I don't want to lose Larry, too."

The elaborate floor show arranged by Radcliff for the entertainment of his friends closed to thunderous applause. The lights in the Casino, which had rented dimmed. A pencil of white spotlighted Radcliff's table. He rose, sleek, smiling, urbanely sardonic.

"My good friends," he addressed the bejeweled crowd. "for once I have failed my public. As a spectacular finale to a spectacular career" he paused for effect, "I was to have been murdered tonight."

A gasp ran through the Casino. "But," he continued, "the murderer has missed his cue. I am very much alive, and shall continue in that happy state for years to come."

Radcliff suddenly buckled in the middle and sprawled headlong across his table.

Inspector Mills sprang forward frantically. But he was too late. The murderer had not missed his cue. A small, neat bullet hole gaped in the gleaming front of Radcliff's shirt.

Inspector Mike Mills marshaled his men and went frantically to work. Each guest was searched, none allowed to leave. Every inch of the Casino was covered by practiced eyes. But nothing was found. A man had been shot, yet no one had heard the gun fired. Moreover, the weapon and the unknown murderer who had wielded it had vanished in a split-second through locked and heavily guarded doors.

Eight hours later, grim, empty handed, the inspector drove Lt. King back to headquarters. He drove as a man in a stupor, once swerving at the last moment to avoid a collision with a taxi. The sudden change of course threw the lieutenant heavily against his superior.

"Sorry," he apologized.

Mills drove on in fogged silence as if alone in a dead world. At headquarters, they silently entered the inspector's office. On the desk sat the neat metal calendar. The date had not been changed, nor did Mills change it. He sank down, burying his face in his hands. The lieutenant hesitated, then cleared his throat.

"Mike," he said, "when you swerved to miss that taxi, my hand bumped against the gun in your coat pocket." He paused. "But I happen to know you always carry your service revolver in your hip pocket."

The inspector's head came up slowly, his face dazed, bewildered. King's glance flicked to the metal calendar.

"Last night was the anniversary of your daughter's death," he paused again. "Do you really believe her death was accidental, Mike?"

The inspector stood up. "No," he said after a long moment. "She committed suicide. And my best friend drove her to it. She was madly in love with him. He toyed with her, taunted her, then finally threw her over."

Inspector Mills drew a revolver from his coat pocket. It was not a regulation police gun. Ballistics could not have traced the weapon to a police officer. The gun was equipped with a close fitting, modern silencer. He handed the instrument of destruction to the lieutenant.

"I couldn't have missed him," he said. "I had the table next to him. I saw to that."—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

W. Va. Administration Would Modify Bills for Permanent Registration

Easing of Identification Requirements Proposed in Legislature

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 26.—The administration proposed today to ease identification requirements in pending bills for permanent registration of voters, and the House Judiciary committee brought them out again for further action.

The Senate in the meantime put its registration measures on the passage stage with only one minor amendment.

Legislative technicians rearranged the bills so that persons unable to write need only make their mark on poll books with poll clerks as witnesses.

Meets Labor Objections

It also was provided that these persons would receive certificates from registrars when they are registered.

Labor spokesmen objected during House consideration of the bills last week that identification requirements for illiterate persons would disenfranchise large numbers of voters.

A general revision of laws relating to delinquent lands was approved unanimously by the House in taking up a departmental bill out of order. The system would revert to that in effect soon after the state was formed and would provide for deputy commissioners in all counties to handle sales of land delinquent for taxes.

The delegates made a change whereby the state would "forgive" taxes due prior to 1929. There have been no land sales since then because of various moratoriums approved by legislatures.

Exemption Bill to Conference

As expected, Governor Neely's bill to exempt bread, milk, flour, butter and eggs from the consumers sales tax was ordered to a conference committee to settle House-Senate differences.

The differences mainly were over the definitions of the five basic foods written into the administration measure. The Senate rejected the House changes, and the delegates refused to recede.

The House also had written in a clause requiring the tax commissioner to set up a uniform accounting system for merchants who collect the tax. The Senate had declined to accept this when the bill originally was under consideration.

The first conference committee named this session — to work out differences over the administration bill for non-partisan election of school boards—reported itself unable to agree. A sub-committee was named to do some work overnight and the full committee will meet again tomorrow.

Discuss Budget Supplement

Governor Neely met with the Board of Public Works late today for final consideration of a supplement to the $67,000,000 budget bill while the chairman of the House Finance committee expressed the hope the biennial appropriation measure will pass the House by Monday.

The board was expected to insert appropriations for liberalized old age-blind pensions, pay increases for school teachers, operating expenses of the proposed labor relations commission and possibly for other purposes.

The increases could range from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 for the next two years, less what legislative committees have pared out of the original bill.

Chairman Ballard (D-Mercer) of the House Finance committee said he expected to get the amended measure on the floor Friday and hoped it would be ready for a vote Monday.

Frostburg Church Prepares Special Lenten Services

Spiritual Strengthening To Be Stressed at St. Paul's Lutheran

FROSTBURG, Feb. 26.—The Lenten season will be observed at St. Paul's Lutheran church in services especially arranged to emphasize the peculiar central thought of the season—that it is a time of extended retirement from ordinary activities with a view to spiritual cleanliness and strengthening. The messages brought to the congregation during the five weeks of Lent that precede Palm Sunday will all be prepared for the purpose of bringing Christian thought to bear upon some phase of personal Christianity directly related to the Lenten purpose.

The Rev. Walter V. Simon, pastor, announces the following series of sermons: Sunday mornings—March 2, "Having Nothing—Yet"; March 9, "Called unto Holiness"; March 16, "As Becometh Saints"; March 23, "Children of Freedom"; March 30, "Dead Works or the Living God?"

Sunday evenings—March 2, "Conscience of the Cross"; March 9, "The Order of Towels and Basin"; March 16, "The Case of Judas"; March 23, "Vine and Branches"; March 30, "Before Crock-Crow."

Wednesday evenings—March 5, "With Jesus in Service"; March 12, "With Jesus in Retirement"; March 19, "With Jesus in Agony"; March 26, "With Jesus in Triumph"; April 2, "With Jesus in Two Worlds."

The pastor of St. Paul's states he believes, with a respected Alleghenian countian, that hope, for America and for the world, of anything that resembles stable and lasting peace will depend upon spiritual regeneration. The Lenten season in St. Paul's church, he says, is arranged that men who partake of its opportunities may find spiritual refreshment and rebirth.

'Use Tax' on Mail Order Goods Proposed in W. Va. Legislature

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 26.—Purchasers of mail order house goods would have to pay a two percent "use tax" in lieu of the consumers sales tax which they now escape under an administration bill which went before the House and Senate today.

The measure headed a list of dozens of bills submitted by delegates and senators to beat the deadline. No more bills will be received after today except by concurrent resolutions.

The "use tax" has been advocated by the state Tax department for several years and would apply on any consumer goods bought outside the state and transported directly to the consumer.

Mail order houses with branches in the state would pay the tax, otherwise the consumer must make a return. The proposed levy would not apply on any merchandise upon which sales tax has been paid, upon goods bought for resale or for products to be used in manufacturing.

The legislature's interim committee introduced its bill to create a special court to study claims against the state. The legislature now appropriates for such claims without any intermediate body to make recommendations.

"Bona fide" labor contracts would be the basis for determining prevailing wages to be paid workers on public construction projects under a bill by Delegate J. R. Ewing (D-Ohio). The law now merely stipulates that the prevailing wage shall be paid.

Junior Dairy Project Offers Prizes And Experience to Young Farmers

Tucker County Agent Announces Plans for Annual Competition

PARSONS, W. Va., Feb. 26.—Tucker county 4-H members and vocational agriculture students will have the opportunity of gaining valuable experience in caring for a dairy cow and marketing the milk, in addition to having the opportunity of sharing in $250 in prizes, by participating in the 1941 West Virginia Junior Dairy Project. A. L. Kidd, county 4-H club agent, announces.

Sponsored jointly by the West Virginia Agricultural Extension Service and the State Department of Vocational Agriculture, the project has the co-operation of the Carnation Milk Company at their Clarksburg, Cameron and Oakland plants, and of the United Dairy Company plant at Ellenboro, Ritchie county. Any 4-H club member of vocational agriculture student between the ages of 14 and 21 living in an area of the state served by either of these two companies and situated so that he can be served by a milk route to any one of these plants is eligible to enroll in this project. Mr. Kidd said.

Provision is made that enrollments meet with the approval of the county 4-H club agent, in the case of 4-H club members, or vocational agriculture instructors in the case of Vo-Ag students. Enrollments must be in by April 1 and the cows obtained for the project not later than May 15. Both companies are ready to receive milk in connection with this project at the present time.

Participants in the contest must provide themselves with a producing cow which may be either a grade, a purebred or a registered animal. In addition to being the property of the member, the cow must be predominately of dairy breeding and preferably sired by a registered dairy bull. Mr. Kidd explained. The milk companies will lend the duly-enrolled members a milk can, a strainer and a sufficient supply of strainer disks to provide two each day for the duration of the project.

Checks for the milk received by the companies will be mailed every two weeks to the junior dairyman together with a statement showing the pounds of milk received daily and the average butterfat test for the two-week period. In this way the project member will obtain a complete milk and butter fat record on his cow.

In connection with this project the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, through its Agricultural Development department, offers awards totaling $250. Winners of these awards will be divided among the regions into which the northern twenty counties of the state have been divided. One hundred and fifty dollars will be awarded in regional prizes and will be divided among the regions on a basis of the number enrolled in each. To the winner of the first place for the entire territory, the railroad will award a $100 scholarship to be used in defraying expenses toward a college education at any recognized college or university.

Boys and girls or their parents who are interested in this project should interview the county 4-H club agent, their Vo-Ag teacher, or a field man or milk hauler of either dairy company for further information.

Frostburg Churchwomen To Be Link In World-Wide Chain of Worship

World Day of Prayer Service To Be Held Tomorrow at St. Paul's

FROSTBURG, Feb. 26.—To take part in a service which will be shared by churchwomen the world over, women of Frostburg will meet this week on the first Friday in Lent to give recognition to the World Day of Prayer.

Representatives of all faiths and denominations will participate in the service at 7:30 p. m. at St. Paul's Lutheran church, forming another link in the chain of worshippers which begins at the international date line and extends for forty hours, following the path of the sun.

The World Day of Prayer is an international observance of solemnity of faith and will not be confined to countries at peace. Last year, in Britain, China, Greece, Australia, Canada, South America and South Africa, women gathered together to pray.

The movement backed by the National Committee of Church Women, had its start in 1920 when the women of the United States and Canada united in prayer on the first Friday in Lent. The first international observance was in 1927 as the interest spread through missionaries; and by 1936, Christians of fifty countries marked the day.

The words, "The eternal stars shine out as soon as it is dark enough," carried a depth of meaning never felt before for the British, who kept the day last year.

Women from all sections of China gathered at Chung King, wartime capital, to observe China's first day of prayer. In nearby Shanghai, the international city, Koreans, Germans, Japanese, Russians and English knelt in common prayer in recognition of the gravity of the world situation.

Reports from Greece state that there will be no disruption of the usual routine and that the day will be set aside for prayer.

Similar reports have come from cities in India, Bangkok, New Zealand, and Australia, Hawaii, Cuba, Puerto Rico and South Africa.

Locally, leaders of the various church societies have arranged a program and invited members of all denominations to attend. An opportunity is given during the singing of hymns for women to enter or leave if they cannot stay for the entire service. A uniform program has been used the last few years by all churches observing the World Day of Prayer.

News of Interest From the Baseball Training Camps

Sudden Sale of Babe Dahlgren Starts Speculation among Observers

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 26. (P)—The sudden sale of Babe Dahlgren to the Boston Bees yesterday provided two interesting topics of conversation at the New York Yankees' camp.

The consensus was that Dahlgren was sold because he had been a too-stubborn hold-out this spring. With Rookie Johnny Stum left as the only first baseman on the roster, guesses were that the Yankees were working on a deal for George McQuinn of the Browns, or that Outfielder Tommy Henrich or Second-baseman Joe Gordon would be converted into a first sacker.

St. Louis Browns

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 26. (P)—Chilly weather kept the St. Louis Browns under wraps yesterday, but it didn't slow the club's office in St. Louis. From there came word five players had signed and were en route to camp. They were Outfielders Walt Jundich and Roberto Estalella, Infielders Harold Clift and John Lucadello and Pitcher John Head.

Cleveland Indians

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 26. (P)—Outfielder Roy Weatherly, who is demanding a two-year contract, now is officially a holdout, as he was missing from the Cleveland Indians' second squad that reported yesterday. Clarence (Soup) Campbell, who had permission to report late because he's recovering from flu, turned up on time with Hal Trosky.

Washington Senators

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 26. (P)—Manager Bucky Harris of Washington will be happy if he can find one tolerable flinger among the dozen bush leaguers in camp. "It's too much to expect that we can come up with another Sid Hudson," he says. Best prospects appear to be Alex Zuckowski, from Greenville, in the Sally League, and Southpaw Bill Kennedy, from the Florida State League.

Boston Red Sox

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 26. (P)—Holdout Ted Williams appears to be giving the Boston Red Sox the silent treatment. No word has been received from him for several weeks. Bobby Doerr's coming to terms yesterday left the temperamental outfielder as the Sox's only real holdout. Nothing has been heard from Oscar Judd, rookie pitcher, but he is believed en route from his home in Canada.

Cincinnati Reds

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26. (P)—Manager Bill McKechnie, of the champion Cincinnati Reds, is high on Monte Pearson, the former Yankee pitcher, and Monte is confident he will do all right with the National Leaguers. "I wouldn't be here, if I didn't think I could help McKechnie along," says Monte. "I have plenty of good investment property in California, along with a paid-up annuity policy that will take care of me when I finally decide to quit."

Theaters Today*'Boogie-Woogie' Theme Of Liberty Picture

If the international situation has you troubled and your rheumatism has you down, just forget your cares and worries and try a little boogie-woogie. It's a cure-all for the blues.

That's the prescription of the Andrews Sisters, who have made boogie-woogie what it is today — just about a national institution.

Featured with Abbott and Costello in Universal's "Buck Privates," which starts tomorrow at the Liberty theater the Andrews, Maxene LaVerne and Patty, are the girls who first sang "Rhumboogie," "Beat Me, Daddy, Eight to the Bar," "Scrub Me, Momma, With a Boogie Beat," and a half-dozen others that have topped the half-million mark.

'Philadelphia Story' Tested in Advance

The infallible formula that "practice makes perfect" was put to good use during the preparation and filming of "The Philadelphia Story," picturization of Katharine Hepburn's New York comedy stage success, which stars her with Cary Grant and James Stewart at the Maryland theater.

The play, which carried through fifty-two consecutive weeks, 416 performances, certainly was publicized. The audiences that packed the Shubert theater laughed plenty, and since the world of today hungers for good laughs, Director George Cukor was anxious that none of them be lost in the film version.

Hence, the studio did a novel thing. Into the theater went microphones, and then, one evening when the cast was not aware of the fact, the entire production was recorded on a sound track. The result was a record of a free and easy performance by players who knew where every laugh was available and how to get it. In addition, the recording reproduced audience laughter, which showed which scenes got the biggest laughs and how they were spaced.

The recording proved a valuable guide throughout the making of the film, as well as to Donald Ogden Stewart who wrote the screen play. Not a laugh was lost, or a key comedy situation wasted. Cukor had the stage sound track on the set at all times for easy reference. It helped the start key their performances and know exactly what lines of dialogue would get a chuckle, a laugh or a howl. All they had to do was turn on the sound track and listen to the audience.

Barlon MacLane Has Featured Role at Strand

Barlon MacLane is featured as "Jack Slade" the hard-bitten renegade of Zane Grey's "Western Union." Robert Young, Randolph Scott, Dean Jagger and Virginia Gilmore had the cast of the Twentieth Century-Fox Technicolor film which closes today at the Strand theater.

The picture was held over an extra day by public demand.

Starting tomorrow at the Strand, the first double-thrill show of the season, "The Mad Doctor" and "The Monster and the Girl."

James Stewart Film
Now at Garden

"No Time for Comedy," starring James Stewart and Rosalind Russell, closes today at the Garden. A comedy, the picture has a featured cast headed by Charles Ruggles and Genevieve Tobin.

Also on the Garden program is "Girls of the Road," starring Ann Dvorak, Helen Mack and Lola Lane.

Veteran Comic Featured In Embassy Western

One of Hollywood's veteran comedians, Syd Saylor, has a prominent role in "Wyoming Wildcat," starring Don Barry, tomorrow at the Embassy theater.

Saylor portrays the tough ex-army sergeant who goes soft when his pal—the cowboy star, Don Barry—runs into difficulties. On the close of the Spanish-American war the pair journey out west to help Don's father rehabilitate his ranch. They discover that Frank Gannon, Don's father, has turned outlaw and killer, and is a fugitive from the law.

Don and Syd, in an effort to rehabilitate Gannon, temporarily join up with the gang, merely as a means of helping Gannon break away from it. Their efforts are in vain, however, for Gannon is determined that his boy will not drift into a life of crime, and deliberately makes himself appear to be such a factor and hardened malefactor that even his son leaves him in disgust.

The second picture features Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Simms in "Blondie Has Servant Trouble." Chapter two of "The Green Archer" is also on the program.

Katharine Hepburn professes that John Howard is "her man," but James Stewart is convinced he still has a chance. # Central Girls Tie Allegany in WMI Race

Wallop Bruce Lassies 46-17 In Final Game

Playoff Will Be Necessary To Decide the 1941 Championship

LANACONING, Feb. 26.—Central girls walloped Bruce here tonight 46 to 17 in the final WMI game of the season giving them a tie with Allegany girls and making a playoff necessary for the 1941 WMI Championship.

Central and Allegany finished the regular league season with a record of nine victories and one defeat, each defeating the other once but turned back all other teams faced in WMI competition. Allegany closed its season Tuesday night by defeating Port Hill.

FINAL STANDINGS	W.	L.	Pct.
Allegany	9	1	.900
Central	9	1	.900
Port Hill	5	5	.500
Bruce	5	5	.500
Brad	2	8	.200
Bruce	2	10	.167

Central had things all their own way last night Bruce never giving them the slightest trouble. The Lanconing lassies took a 16 to 6 lead in the first quarter increased it to 27 to 9 at the half and were in front 34 to 13 at the end of the third period.

The sensational shooting of Muster who made 18 points and Merrbach who was only a point behind with 17, was the feature of the games. Prizzell contributed 11 points to the total of 49. The brilliant guarding of the Central girls kept the Bruce forwards in trouble throughout the contest, that is all of them except Whitworth, who did her best to keep the Bruce team in the running scoring 12 points.

Central's victory tonight makes two playoffs necessary in the WMI League as Port Hill boys tied Allegany Tuesday night for the lead in the boys' division.

League officials did not know last night just when the two playoffs would take place but said they hoped arrangements could be made to have the championships decided as soon as possible.

Shepherd Meets Potomac State

KEYSER, W. Va., Feb. 26.—The Potomac State Basketball team hopes to make it two victories in a row Thursday night when it meets Shepherd college of Shepherdstown here in a return game.

Shepherd nosed out the Catamounts several days ago 44 to 42 in a game played at Shepherdstown, but Potomac State, fresh from its upset over Frostburg State Teachers last night in an extra period is confident it can run its winning streak to two games.

The Catamounts played by far their best game of the season against the State Teachers with Hardman, freshman, former Weston star pacing the attack with 21 points.

Mioland Favored To Win Santa Anita

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26 (AP)—Mioland wants a muddy track and Challeon a dry strip, and therein may lie the answer to the seventh running of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap Saturday.

Of these two stand-out eligibles for the rich purse, C. S. Howard's Mioland can travel on either kind of track, but his best races have been run in "off" going.

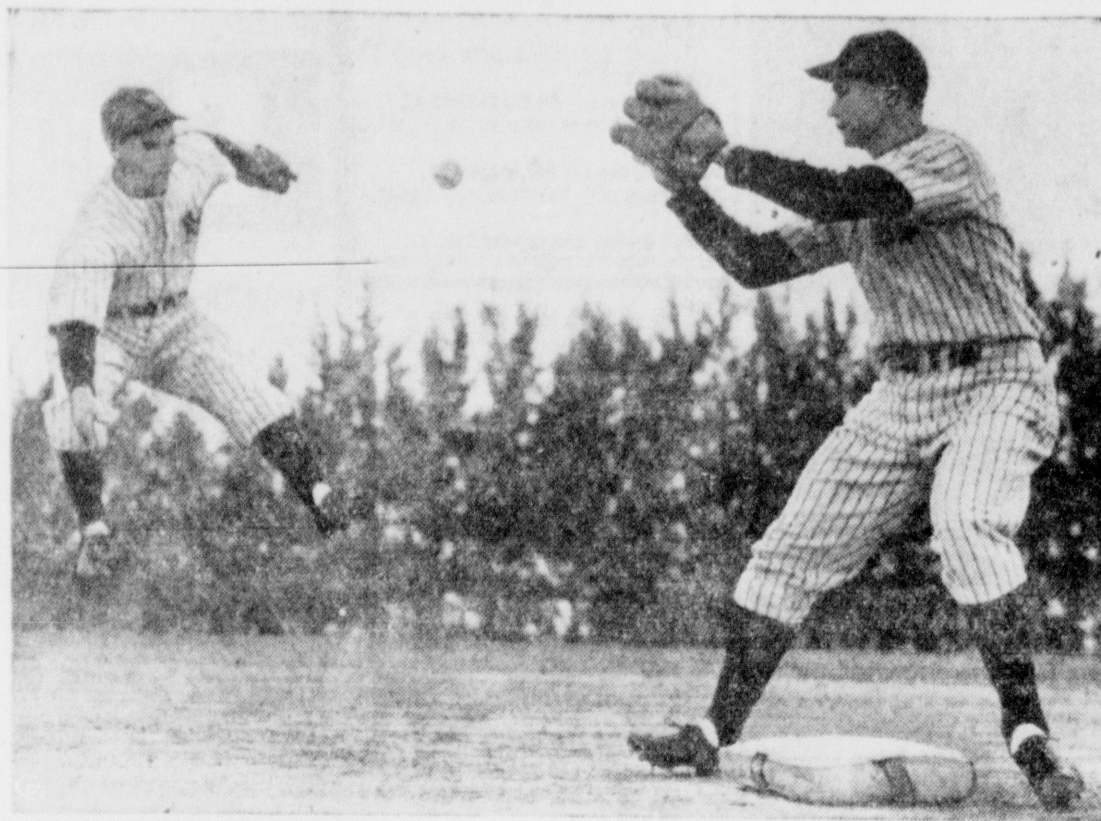

Challeon ordinarily could go in the mud, but he is behind in his training schedule, and packing too weight of 130 pounds over the long journey with the added handicap of a slow track is not exactly what he would like.

The current weather guess is that Santa Anita will be dry. They have been baking the surf with roaring mobile ovens, and it rains hold off the Maryland invader may get the kind of racing strip his stable wants despite the recent rainy weather.

Rain or shine, Mioland in all probability will be the betting favorite, and a short one if Howard and trainer Tom Smith decide to make their entry a combination of Mioland and the three-year-old Santa Anita derby winner, Porter's Cap.

Interest and hope for Challeon picked up tremendously, however, after his satisfactory workout yesterday.

YANKEES' NEW KEYSTONE COMBINATION

The New York Yankees pin high hopes on this new rookie keystone combination, shown practicing their snappy technique at St. Petersburg, Fla. They are shortstop Phil Rizzuto (left) and second-sacker Gerald Priddy, who were teamed up at Kansas City last season.

Jenkins Trains On Goal's Milk For Ambers Fight

His Wife Also Sees That He Does Road Work and Retires Early

By SID FEDER

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Feb. 26. (AP)—The "boss" is around these days, so Lew Jenkins in drinking his two quarts of goat's milk every day.

To those who knew the Jenkinses of Sweetwater, Texas, the boss is Mrs. Lew—otherwise "Katie"—and she has taken full charge of the lightweight champion's training for his fight in Madison Square Garden Friday night with former 135-pound boss Lou Ambers.

Lew may be the man of the family, but when Katie gives him the word about anything, the Sweetwater Swatter doesn't argue. Up to now, Lew's erstwhile handler, hilarious Hymie Caplin, handled training details, and informed Katie that wives are about as welcome around a training camp as a shortage of steaks. Katie arrived at Lew's camp one sunny afternoon last year to have it out with Hymie. Hymie chased her right out of there—but she took Lew back to New York where she could keep an eye on him.

This time Hymie is awaiting sentence for a recent conviction. So Katie is in command ready to persuade Lew if he obeys such orders as drinking his goat's milk or getting to bed by eleven. Katie makes sure he does his road work, too. She paces him on a bicycle as he trots around the Jersey hills. Also on hand is Lew's manager, Fred Browning of Dallas, who says Hymie will get his usual cut out of Friday's fight.

Jenkins hasn't let the feminine touch around his training camp bother him a bit. He looks as good as he did when he was preparing to take the title away from Ambers last year—which he did with a three-round knockout.

He hit a couple of sparring partners so hard the other day they packed up and left camp on the next bus.

Little things like this, naturally, have been heard by the odds-layers. As a result, they've installed Jenkins a 1 to 2½ choice to whip the little laughing boy from Herkimer, N. Y., and even money to put the "slug" on him early in their ten-round non-title tussle.

Cornell Announces Its 1942 Schedule

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 26 (AP)—Army and Penn State will replace Harvard and Navy on Cornell's 1942 football schedule, it was announced today. The schedule:

Oct. 3, Colgate; 10, Army at West Point; 17, Penn State; 24, Syracuse at Syracuse; 31, Columbia at New York. Nov. 7, Yale at New Haven; 14, D. U. at Ithaca; 21, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Feller Due To Receive Questionnaire by July 4

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26 (AP)—Bob Feller, Cleveland Indians' ace pitcher, probably will get his selective service questionnaire by July 4. It was indicated today by the local draft board with which he is registered.

Feller is two thousand eight hundred and fifty-seventh among 3,866 registrants in his district. The board already has sent out 1,200 questionnaires and now is mailing them at the rate of 100 a week.

The pitcher, now training with the Indians at Fort Myers, Fla., is not expected to be called during the 1941 season.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26.—Baseball players who have missed a year or two of their careers because their ankle had a break or their curve ball didn't, know what it is to yearn to get back in the game and can sympathize with Witt Guise. There's a guy who yearned for seven years. Sort of a seven year itch, in fact.

Of all the rookies in the majors this year none can offer a more interesting case history than this thirty-two year old Cincinnati pitcher who for seven years of what should have been the heart of his career drew a total blank on the records. Arm trouble.

He's a long, loose Arkansas, vaguely resembling Lon Warneke, and so lean the shaw of tobacco in his cheek sticks out like an orange in a Christmas stocking.

He's from Magazine, Ark., which he says has seventy or eighty people but which boasts its population to two or three hundred by reaching out to the countryside a little. The town is right in the Ozarks, and Guise has adopted sort of a professional hill-billy air, as that seems to be what's expected. If the folks want to hear of how he had to stomp on the pumpkin vines because they were racing over and threatening to strangle grandpaw, that's what he'll tell them. Always accommodating.

But he's anything but a hill-billy. His dad is a physician, and Witt himself went to the University of Florida for three years.

That's getting away from his story, however. Let him tell it.

"The Yankees signed me up in 1929," he relates, "and in 1930 I was with Jersey City and Hazelton, and in 1931 with Albany. In the winter of '31 I and another fellow were bass fishing down here in Florida. We were drifting down stream when he got a nice bite. He yelled for me to row. I grabbed an oar with my left hand and pulled.

"Well, I could just feel the muscles in my shoulder coming apart. When I reported next spring I couldn't toss an apple in a barrel. They sent me home when they saw I wasn't improving.

"We have a farm with a lot of stock on it, so I went out there and took care of it. I never gave up hope my arm would come back but the years went by and it looked doubtful.

"I kept trying to throw all the time and after about four years it began to get better. You can laugh at this, but it's the truth. I used to heave stones at squirrels as they jumped around in the trees. Got one once in awhile too.

"I'm left handed, you know, and I got to figuring that there were some good right-handed knuckleballers, but no left handers knockable because left handers are wild enough as it is. Anyway, I started practicing the knuckler. At first I couldn't hit the catcher, even, but now it's my best pitch, although I have a pretty good curve. Not much of a fast ball though.

"I pitched a little semipro ball when my arm got better, but it

Track and Field Stars Will Take Part in Meet

World Record Holders To Perform in Baltimore Armory Saturday

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 26 (AP)—Stars of track and field, including world record holders and other "greats" of track and field will compete in the University of Maryland-Fifth Regiment games March 7 at the Baltimore armory.

Geary Eppley, Maryland athletic director and games vice chairman, said the fast-growing list already included Fred Wolcott of Rice Institute, the world's premier hurdler; Earle Meadows of Southern California, who recently established a new world's indoor mark of 14 feet, 6½ inches for the pole vault; and the veteran distance runner Joe McCluskey.

McCluskey won his twenty-third National title last Saturday at New York, bettering his nine-year-old two-mile steeple-chase mark by 11.4 seconds with a 9 minute, 35.4 seconds performance. This gave him a tie with Willie Ritola, flashing Finn of other years, for the most running crowns.

McCluskey will run the two-miles on the flat in the Baltimore games. In 1938 he won the race and last year was second.

One of the features of the evening promises to be the Oriole 660, with Charlie Beetham, former Ohio State middle distance ace, Maryland's Jim Kehoe, and Dave Morrison of North Carolina topping the list.

Eppley said Navy, Virginia, North Carolina's Southern championship squad, Duke, Richmond, Wake Forest, Washington and Lee, V.P.I., William and Mary and other colleges and clubs would send their finest to the meet.

Early Losses Blamed For Defeat of Yankees

The Yankees, hailed in the spring of 1940 as invincible again, provided a surprise as the season advanced.

The high and mighty champions were nothing better than a second-division club much of the season and at the end of the first month actually were in the cellar. A nine-game losing streak and a sudden woeful weakness against southpaw pitchers as they lost fourteen of the first twenty-one games probably cost them the flag. A final spurt took them to within two games of the pennant-winning Detroit Tigers.

Landis, in Overcoat, Visits Reds' Camp

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—Kenesaw M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, dropped in on the world champion Cincinnati Reds at practice today and held a lengthy conference with Manager Bill McKechie.

Landis shook hands with all players kidded them and posed for photographers. The weather was mild but the judge wore an overcoat.

"And," he quipped, "I don't care whether the Chamber of Commerce knows about it or not."

wasn't until 1939 that I figured it was well enough to try league ball again."

Guise went to Lenoir, in the Tar Heel League, in 1939, and won 15 and lost 7. Last year he started with Columbia in the South Atlantic, and after winning 13 and losing six was brought up by the Reds late in the season. He showed enough in the eight innings he worked to warrant a trial this year.

Hilton Fitzpatrick Wins Decision Over Pessaro

Large Crowd Is Well Pleased with Police Boys' Club Boxing Show

Scoring a first-round knock down and throwing plenty of leather in all three rounds, Hilton "Tarzan" Fitzpatrick, hard-hitting middle-weight scrapper from the West Virginia Deaf Schools, won a decision over Charles Pessaro of Baltimore in the feature attraction of the Cumberland Police Boys' Club amateur boxing show last night at the state armory.

Fitzpatrick Starts Strong
Fitzpatrick started the initial round in whirlwind fashion, connecting with a flurry of rights and lefts which sent the Baltimore scrapper sprawling to the canvas for a six count early in the round. Pessaro, however, managed to keep away from the Romney mauler the remainder of the round and then relied on his boxing skill the rest of the way.

Fitzpatrick brought the blood from Pessaro's nose in the second round but never was able to land anything near a knock out punch as Pessaro, who holds South Atlantic Association A.A.U. and Baltimore Diamond Belt crowns, kept bobbing and weaving and tied up his adversary at close quarters.

Ten other bouts, in addition to three exhibition scraps, were on the program, and all were crowd pleasers. Only one knockout was recorded, Gene Kiddy of the Devon A. C. finishing Don Coughenour in thirty seconds of the second round in the seventh decision bout of the evening.

Kiddy Licks Coughenour

Kiddy, who spotted Coughenour ten pounds, the former weighing in at 175, dropped Coughenour for a count of nine with a left hook as the second round got underway and then completed the job when the latter arose by firing a similar blow which caught Coughenour right on the button.

The semi-final, which brought together Orville Jackson, 142 of Frostburg, and Phil Manfredi, representing the Kline A. C. of decision. Both fighters started throwing punches in all directions as the bout got underway and both were battling hammer and tongs when the final round ended.

Walter "Meatball" Basilio, 116 of the local Police Boys' Club, scored a well-earned decision over Paul Fromhart of the Keyser Boys' Club in the second bout on the program. Basilio, spotting height and reach, was easily the superior puncher, his fast pace being too much for Fromhart. Basilio had the Keyser glove-man on the verge of a kayo in the third round but the final seconds ticked away before he could finish his task.

Same Story in 1936

In 1936, it was the same story. Mike reported to Joplin again, this time determined to be a pitcher or else. But, since it is a manager's business to win games rather than humor players, Mike wound up in the outfield again, this time finishing with a sticking average of .338. In 1937, he joined Norfolk—as a hurler. Once more his hitting undid him, but his average slipped back to .305 for the year.

In 1938, Norfolk still owned his contract and he returned hopefully as a pitcher, only to find himself shagging fly balls once more. During the season he was sent to Wenatchee of the Western International League, where he batted .329, after compiling a mark of .405 for the duration of his early season stop with Norfolk.

The season of 1939 found him again with Wenatchee and again history repeated itself. This would-be pitcher was beginning to sour on life as his remarkable batting eye and powerful wrists outweighed his curve ball and he was again sent to the sun field to pick drives out of the skies. Mike finished the campaign with .317 on his report card and was about ready to give himself up. He was to be "Mike, the Mauler" the rest of his life, instead of "another Carl Hubbell."

Chattanooga Buys Contract
President Joe Engel of Chattanooga had seen Dejan on one of his scouting trips and realized that the big fellow had prospects so when he was put on the block last winter, Engel paid $750 to the New York Yankees for his contract.

In the spring when Mike reported to Manager Kiki Cuyler at DeLand for spring training, he didn't mention his ambition to be a pitcher. Humbly he went to the pastures and for the first in his career began to take his life's work as a field hand seriously. He liked Cuyler. He listened attentively to everything that Cuyler told him. He spent long, weary hours, days and weeks in the outfield with Cuyler at his side, shagging flies, snagging grass cutters and learning to come up with the ball in position to get it away fast.

His hitting left nothing to be desired; his speed was almost unbelievable for a man so big. In a 100-yard dash against his teammates, he left all of them so far behind it wasn't even close. He could throw strikes to third or home when occasion demanded and under the expert tutoring of Cuyler, he soon became one of the league's best defensive outfielders.

In the opening double-header at Knoxville, he hit three home runs out of the park, over three different fences and off three different pitchers, one of them a left-hander.

Mike was one of the best liked men on the Chattanooga club and Ridegley will seek to clinch the Potomac Valley Conference title in its final game of the season when it meets Thomas at Ridegley. A victory will give the Hahnen the title regardless of the outcome of the Keyser-Parsons game at Parsons.

VETERAN CENTER OF GLOBETROTTERS

Inman Jackson, who will appear here Sunday night with the Harlem Globetrotters, when the team meets the North End Social and Athletic Club cagers at SS. Peter and Paul hall at 9:30 o'clock, is a former star with City College of New York. This is Jackson's eleventh season with the Trotters and his nineteenth season of independent basketball. He is considered one of the greatest ball handlers in the game and a star in the art of hardwood court showmanship.

Rambling with Rookies

MICHAEL DEJAN Cincinnati Reds

Mike Dejan, the big six-foot one-inch outfielder the Cincinnati Reds acquired from Chattanooga, where he earned the Southern Association's batting crown, came into baseball world as a pitcher, even as George Herman (Babe) Ruth. Also like the Babe, Mike's bat has kept him off the mound.

Unlike the Babe, who went on to pitch in the World's Series before he was permanently assigned to the outer garden, Mike was shifted to the outfield every year before he could flet his pitching arm warmed up good.

It all started back in 1935 at Joplin, Mike reported as a pitcher, but his manager, Runt Marr decided he could win more games swinging a bat every day than he could pitching once or twice a week. So Mike started plying them under in the outfield and tapped out a neat .301 mark for the season.

Same Story in 1936

In 1936, it was the same story. Mike reported to Joplin again, this time determined to be a pitcher or else. ## Allegany Noses Out Keyser by 29 to 26 Score

Campers Lead Throughout Game but Only by a Few Points

Allegany showing effects of its gruelling battle with Port Hill Tuesday night had a hard time nosing out Keyser high last night by a 29 to 26 score in a game played at Keyser.

The game was close from start to finish with the Campers never being able to obtain much of a lead, although they were ahead seven points, at the end of the first half. For the most part, however, only two or three points separated the teams, particularly in the first, third and fourth quarters.

The Bowensmen led 7 to 6 at the end of the first quarter, 19 to 12 at half-time and 25 to 24 at the close of the third period.

Defensive play marked the contest with neither team being able to score consistently from the field. Allegany outscored Keyser 12 to 8 from the field but the West Virginians were able to stay right on the Campers heels by their ability to cash in on foul shots, making 10 out of 14 while Allegany could make five out of eleven.

James with 14 points led the Allegany attack, while Dorsey with eight was best for Keyser.

In the preliminary game the Keyser girls defeated the Elk Garden girls 20 to 19.

Bimelech's Winnings May Reach $300,000

Needs Victory In Widener Cup Race Saturday

Bradley's Mighty Colt Is Overwhelming Favorite for Rich Event

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26. (AP)—If Bimelech wins the $50,000 added widener cup race at Hialeah Park Saturday, he will come within easy distance of having won $300,000—a record held by only seven American thoroughbreds.

Such a victory would put Col. E. R. Bradley's mighty colt in eighth place among the nation's money-winning "greats," a big jump from his present rank of sixteenth.

Bimelech was undefeated in six 1939 starts and went on to become the leading three-year-old of 1940.

The Widener is expected to be worth $52,300 first prize money—assuming there'll be fifteen starters. If he wins, this sizeable chunk of cash would bring Bimelech's winnings to $299,045. The charmed $300,000 mark has been crossed by Sea Biscuit, Sun Beau, Equipoise, Chalden, Zev and Mate.

Bimelech became an overwhelming favorite for the Widener—rich prize of Florida's racing season—when he easily defeated Hash and Shot Put in his 1941 debut last Saturday at Hialeah.

Since that impressive start, he has worked out well at Hialeah, clocking the mile and a quarter Widener distance in 2:10 today. This under-wraps time compared with the track record of 2:01 4-5.

For the Widener cash and the Widener Challenge trophy, Bimelech must contend with such outstanding 1940 favorites as Greentree Stable's Hash and Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put. Other probable entries include Get Off, Robert L. Sickle T. Corydon, Joe Schenck, Ringle, Royal man, Snow Ridge, The Chief, Big Pebble, Pretty Pet and Hualta.

The Widener will close Hialeah's forty-six days of racing and mark the reopening of Tropical Park for the final half of its winter program.

Nickname of Sooners Derived from Pioneers

When early settlers in the Indian country now known as Oklahoma succeeded in beating the gun for the dash to stake claims in the new land they were known as Sooners, because they got to their land sooner than they should have.

The name spread. Finally it included Oklahomans in general and then it became the nickname of University of Oklahoma football teams.

Richest race of the year, the annual $100,000 Santa Anita, Cal., Handicap, scheduled for Saturday, March 1, draws the attention of

Ambers Is Confident He'll Beat Jenkins

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The deepest shock that the fight year of 1940 brought—deeper, to me at least, than Zivie's slaying of Henry Armstrong and Godoy's fifteen-round joke on Louis—was the sudden, brutal downfall of Lou Ambers, the lightweight champion of the world.

It came without warning. Ambers was only twenty-six last spring, fresh from a winning campaign, conqueror of Armstrong, high in prestige, a craftsman justly famed for his guile, his speed, his stamina and his courage.

He walked out jauntily from his corner that night, smiling and full of confidence. His foe—a scrawny, hollow-eyed fellow with a shock of bushy hair—meant nothing much to him and little more to the crowd. It was just another fight. One of a hundred. They all knew this guy could hit, but hitters seldom bothered Lou Ambers, of the oaken heart and dancing feet, the thrice-proven champion, the dervish who riddled Tony Canzoneri and weathered the fury of Henry Armstrong with a grin.

Lost His Art

So Ambers walked quickly to the middle of the ring and met his man head on. He started a fight. A left hand smashed against his chin, and the glory that was Lou Ambers collapsed in ruins.

Ambers dragged it out till the third round, but his mind was blank and his art was gone, and the punches of Lew Jenkins, the scrawny Texan, rattled on his ears and chin till they stopped it, dragging the champion to safety.

I guess it was the sight of those blows ripping him, flush to the target, that stunned the crowd more than anything else. Time was when Ambers could stand full in the path of attack, bobbing and ducking his head for thirty long seconds, without being touched by a solid blow.

Friday night, at Madison Square Garden, they will do it over again, Jenkins against Ambers—and in spite of the weight of the evidence, it's hard for me to believe that the same thing will happen.

The odds, of course, run strongly in favor of Jenkins, whose title, thanks to an over-the-weight arrangement, will not be at stake. Jenkins has proved himself time and again to be a murderous hitter with either hand. He's a better fighter now than he was last year, more poised, more dangerous.

The students of form consider that Ambers, at twenty-seven, is downward bound. He was too slow to get out of the way of a punch last year, and even though he will enter the ring forewarned this week, they believe his reactions will be too slow and his defense too weak to hold off the hungry blacksmith from Texas.

Doesn't Look Like a Fighter

Ambers looks much the same as he did. The little veteran from Herkimer, N. Y., has a flat, gnomish, face jumpy, nervous mannerisms, and a stooped back that is livid with patches of fire-scar. He doesn't look like a fighter. He never did.

He and his manager, the wily Alastair, Armand (Weckie) Well, have two explanations for the disaster of 1940—(A) that Lou was sick, and (B) that he was over-confident.

If the sickness was not a sign of a permanent decline, if Ambers has nothing yet to fear from age and dry rot, if his poor condition was just a passing thing and over-confidence was his chief trouble, then I think he has a chance to beat Jenkins and harvest revenge.

"Sure, I knew this guy could hit," says Ambers, never standing still as he talks. "I thought he might give me a little brushing. But there was two things wrong; I didn't know he could hit so fast and I wasn't in shape to take what he gave me."

Greenberg Will Be Ready When He Is Called

Says He Has Been Making Arrangements on "This Army Business"

CHICAGO, Feb. 26. (AP)—Big Hank Greenberg, the Detroit Tigers' slugger, outfielder, made it clear to today that he'll be there when the bugle blows.

"I been making arrangements about this army business all the way from here to Honolulu," he said after climbing off a train from Los Angeles today.

"What's there to say? I'm in Class one. I'll be ready to go whenever they call me." He said he looked for a call about next July.

A selective service board official in Detroit disclosed yesterday that Greenberg had suggested he be placed in Class two, where he would have had a six months deferment, on the ground that his "years of earning power" were limited.

Asked about this report, Greenberg exploded:

"If you'll read those questionnaires you'll see that they're supposed to be confidential. But every time they call up that guy in Detroit he issues some kind of new statement."

A reporter asked if there were any chance of his volunteering now so that his army training would not cut into two baseball seasons. "No, sir," he said with a grin. "I'll go when they collar me."

Greenberg was bound for New York after a vacation in Hawaii. He was all dressed up in brown, tanned and looking fit.

Edwin Manske Joins Staff at Holy Cross

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 26. (AP)—Edwin Manske, former All-American end at Northwestern, has been appointed to the Holy Cross grid coaching staff, it was announced today. He will report for duty with the Crusaders March 1.

Manske played end with the Chicago Bears, world pro champions last fall, and is considered one of the best wings in the pro game.

Hogan Lands Pro's Job at Hershey, Pa.

HERSHEY, Pa., Feb. 26. (AP)—Selection of Ben Hogan, top money winner among 1940 golfers, as pro of the Hershey Country Club succeeding Henry Picard was announced today.

Picard resigned as pro at the Hershey club, effective March 15, to take a similar position at the Twin Hills Country Club, Oklahoma City.

"I knew he was an outside hitter, see, and a guy who hits from outside, he should never get to me. But he throws 'em faster than me. I saw that left coming, and I figured I would be out of the way, but it hit me anyways. A little too fast. I'll be ready for that this time. I'll have that baby timed right. And even if he does get home to my whiskers, he won't put the lights out like he done last time."

"I'm in shape now, and I can take a punch when I'm in shape. Why, hell, Jimmy McLaughlin was fifteen pounds bigger than this guy and twice the hitter. McLaughlin belted me all night, and I was in there swinging at the finish. You can kiss this Jenkins good-bye after I'm through with him. I'll beat him this time, and then I'll beat him for the title."

Your agent has a hunch—a very faint hunch, like the first prick of poison ivy—that this lofty promise may come true.

Trot Stakes for Toledo

Racing Notes Of Interest From Florida

Big Turnout Expected at Hialeah Saturday for Final Day of Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26. (AP)—Jockey F. A. Smith was voluntarily curtailed his riding activities because of an ailing shoulder, which he injured in a fall. Smith felt the shoulder might hamper his efforts on Col. E. R. Bradley's star, Bimelech, so Don Meade took over the task of handling the colt on his first appearance of the season last Saturday. Meade will ride Bimelech in the Widener this week end.

Hollywood Stakes

Entry blanks have been delivered to horsemen here for the thirteen stakes to be run at the Hollywood Park summer meeting, May 23 to July 26. Entries for four major events, the $75,000-added Hollywood Gold Cup, the $25,000 Hollywood Derby, the $10,000 Haggin Stakes and the $10,000 Premiere Handicap close May 15.

Hialeah Windup

Although play in the mutuels at Hialeah has been running approximately $20,000 a day less than last year, attendance has been good and a big turnout is expected Saturday when the meeting comes to an end with "Widener Day."

In addition to the $50,000-added Widener, the program includes the $5,000 Hialeah Juvenile Stakes and such popular attractions as the parade of flamingoes on the turf course and the annual appearance of a group of Seminole Indians in their colorful costumes.

Anita Odds

The price on Mioland in the future book on the Santa Anita Handicap has been cut to 2½ to 1, with Chalden a 3-1 second choice, but long-shot fanciers still can find plenty of interesting figures. No fewer than fifteen horses are quoted at 1,000 to 1 to win and there's one, C. P. Smith, listed at 5,000-1.

Horse Deals

G. Ray Bryson has sold the two-year-old Smart, by Brilliant-George W., to Gustave Ring, of Washington, D. C. Rin, in turn, sold Nose, a four-year-old filly by Whiskalong-Gabst, to Bryson. Nose was a former member of the E. K. Bryson Stable.

The Chief

Maxwell Howard's The Chief seems to be having all kinds of trouble reaching his best racing form this year. He looked like a sure winner of yesterday's Jacksonville Purse at Hialeah for three quarters of a mile, then stopped and was passed by three other Widener eligibles, Royal Man, Get Off and Sickle T, which finished in that order. At the end he was some thirteen lengths behind Royal Man.

Robertson's Mount

Trainer P. Dale Watts has engaged Jockey Alfred Robertson, who rode the King Ranch's Dispose to victory in the Flamingo, to guide Gustave Ring's Ringie in the Widener Saturday. Ringie finished second to Big Pebble in the second division of the McLennan Handicap and will carry only 110 pounds in the Widener.

Alaskans Fish

The biggest manufacturing industry in Alaska, according to the Census Bureau, is fish canning and processing. This industry employs over ninety percent of Alaska's 5,400 factory workers. Annual production is valued at nearly $36,000,000.

Man O' War Likes To Pose while Sculptor Works

Great Racer Stands Majestically Now for Two Hours a Day

By GEORGE KERLER

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 26. (AP)—Man O' War has won the admiration of his sculptor—posing majestically two hours a day.

"Big Red" has been on display for years before thousands of thoroughbred worshippers who have come from all parts of the country to see him—so this statue business is merely another job.

The great racer that won twenty of his twenty-one starts, is the father of many famous thoroughbreds, among them War Admiral, Kentucky Derby winner in 1937, and Clyde Van Dusen, the 1939 derby victor.

Owner Sam D. Riddle is having the handsome big fellow perpetuated in bronze.

Herbert Haseltine, 68 and Rome-born who left Europe recently with the Nazis close behind him, is creating a miniature model of the stallion at Riddle's Faraway Farms near Lexington.

A renowned sculptor of animal life, whose statues stand in museums all over the world, Haseltine said of "Big Red":

"Many human models are more difficult to work with than Man O' War. He seems to like it."

When the model is completed Haseltine will move to his New York studio where he will cast a red-bronze statue, twenty hands high of the mighty thoroughbred.

"I am choosing a red-bronze," said Haseltine, "so that the statue will conform with Man O' War in color as well as shape."

The sculptor said the bronze likeness of Man O' War will stand twenty hands high, because a statue of exact proportion would appear small. The horse really stands about 16.3 hands, a bit more than five feet tall.

Haseltine said he did not know where the statue would stand when finished. Riddle, he added, "is undecided."

Four-Year Term Bill Is Offered in Legislature

Measure Boosts Salaries Of Mayor and Councilmen With Referendum in 1942

Bill Sponsored by Jaycees Calls for Increase in Terms of Other Local City Officials

Legislation to increase the terms of Cumberland municipal officials from two to four years and boost the salaries of the mayor and city councilmen were offered in the state legislature yesterday at Annapolis. The bill is sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, of which Fred Z. Hetzel is president.

The mayor, councilmen, clerk, solicitor, auditor, tax collector, magistrate, doctor, engineer, superintendent of streets, superintendent of water and electric light, water waste inspector and certified public accountant all would serve four-year terms under the bill sponsored by the Allegany County delegation.

Referendum in 1942

The measure, which also eliminates provision in existing law that the mayor and councilmen be property owners, calls for a referendum at the municipal election in March, 1942.

Under the new setup, the mayor will receive $2,000 a year instead of $1,500 and the councilmen will get $1,500 instead of $1,200 annually.

The proposed law would require the mayor and councilmen to devote at least four hours daily to city tasks.

Since 1910, the mayor and city councilmen have been elected to two-year terms of office. Qualifications under the present law require the mayor to be a bona fide owner of property to the value of not less than $1,000 and assessed for same on the tax books, at the time of his election, and for two years next prior thereto. Each councilman is required to be the owner of property to the value of $500.

Ages Remain the Same

No change in age appears in the new bill. The mayor shall not be less than thirty years of age and the four councilmen shall not be less than twenty-five years of age at the time of their election. They shall each be citizens of the United States, and for five years immediately preceding their election, residents of the City of Cumberland.

Former Cumberland Girl Relates Experiences in Texas Ice Storm

Even Texans would possibly be inclined to overlook it if Mrs. Lewis Kunzler, the former Miss Shirley Holmes, had arrived at the unshakable conviction that Amarillo is the jumping off place of civilization judging by her three-day sojourn in that town of 51,497 inhabitants last November.

City Wrapped in Ice

But even if Mrs. Kunzler did find the Texas city wrapped in ice with modern conveniences at a low ebb if not non-existent, she did not arrive at any such unfair conclusion, took her three days of rustication in stride and even found much of a humorous nature in the experience. As you have probably already guessed, Mrs. Kunzler happened to hit the Texas town at the time of last autumn's unprecedented cold wave.

After hearing the former Cum-

Deer Park Man Enlists in Army

One man enlisted at the local Army recruiting station yesterday. Marshall Kaylor Shank, of Deer Park, Md., was assigned to the One Thousand and Twentieth Service Unit, Quartermaster Corps, Fort Belvoir, Va.

Two vacancies exist at Fort Belvoir for chauffeurs for the One Thousand and Twentieth Service Unit, Quartermaster Corps, according to Sgt. Bienn, officer in charge of the local station.

Local Red Cross Chapter Receives National Award

Roll Call Honor Certificate Sent Here; $7,847 Raised in Allegany County

All-Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross, has been awarded an honor certificate for distinguished achievement in the twenty-fourth Roll Call, which was conducted last fall, according to Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, county chairman.

Norman H. Davis, national chairman of the Red Cross, through William Carl Hunt, acting manager of the Eastern area, has extended congratulations to Mrs. George Henderson, local Roll Call chairman, and expressed sincere appreciation to all who assisted in making the Roll Call successful.

Largest Since 1919

"Last year our chapters enrolled the largest membership since 1919—well over eight million members," Hunt wrote in his letter to Mrs. Witherup. "This membership made possible increased services of both the national organization and the chapters. The prospects are that next fall will see a need for a far greater membership, but we are confident that whatever the goal may be our chapter leaders will reach it as they have in the past."

Allegany county subscribed $7,847.51 in the 1940 Roll Call, of which $4,845.51 was retained for local purposes and $3,002 was forwarded to national headquarters. A total of 6,292 members were enrolled here during the annual Roll Call in the county.

A report on American Red Cross War Relief, received yesterday by Mrs. Witherup showed that supplies sent to the victims of the warfare in Europe and in the Orient reached a total value of $19,496,805 up to February 1.

The following is a breakdown of relief by nations: Great Britain, $10,277,089; France, $2,201,191; Finland, $1,834,513; Greece, $1,432,304; China, $1,328,940; Spain, $403,756; Poland, $993,922; Belgium, $57,050; Canada, $70,488; Netherlands, $25,000; Norway, $45,740; and Switzerland, $11,272.

The sum listed as Canadian was aid given the Canadian Red Cross in establishing a Canadian hospital in England for war wounded.

Relief to Polish war victims in occupied Poland and neighboring nations was halted when Italy entered the war and the Mediterranean, through which supplies were shipped, was closed to American ships by the Neutrality act. Some relief now is being furnished to Polish refugees through contributions sent to the League of Red Cross Societies at Geneva, and distributed by their delegates.

Many Refugees Aided

The sum sent to the Belgium Red Cross, aided Belgian refugees in France while the sum sent the Netherlands aided Dutch refugees in England. Norwegians purchased medical supplies in Britain and food in Sweden.

The money sent to Switzerland was to aid French soldiers interned in Switzerland, the majority of whom have been repatriated.

Lions Club Guest Speaker Will Fly Here for Dinner

Walter J. Purdy Will Address Zone Meeting at Shrine Club Tonight

Walter J. Purdy, governor of District No. 29 Lions clubs of West Virginia, will come here by airplane today from his home in Ravenswood, W. Va., to be the guest speaker at the combined zone meeting and ladies' night program of Capital District No. 22, this evening at 7 o'clock at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Purdy, who is connected with the Jackson County Bank, Ravenswood, and was the principal speaker at the charter night celebration of the Ridgeley (W. Va.) Lions last October, has notified John K. Snyder, president of the local club, that he plans to leave his home town by plane at 2:30 p. m., and hopes to arrive in Cumberland two hours later. His pilot will accompany him here.

The subject of his talk this evening will be "Today, Not Tomorrow."

Members of Capital district clubs and their wives from Lonaconing, Oakland and Hancock have been invited to attend as well as representatives of West Virginia clubs in Romney, Moorefield, Keyser, Charles Town and Ridgeley.

President Snyder last evening indicated that approximately 100 persons will attend the turkey dinner.

Other features on the program will include selections by the Little German Band, directed by J. Hilary Lancaster; numbers by a quartet, led by Joseph Trenton, well known baritone, and vocal selections by John O. Dice, the local club's new tenor.

Cyril Mee, Hagerstown Lion, will present a skit of Metropolitan flavor, as an added feature.

Churches Observe Beginning of Lent

Majority of 42 Here Hold Special Services; Ashes Received by Catholics

Services in the majority of Cumberland's forty-two churches yesterday, Ash Wednesday, marked the beginning of the forty-day Lenten season leading up to Easter Sunday, April 13.

In the three local Catholic churches, namely, St. Patrick's, St. Mary's and St. Peter and Paul, parishioners received ashes of the palms that were used in last year's Palm Sunday observance.

In several Protestant churches early morning communion services were held for the benefit of members of the congregation who were working during the day.

Methodist churches holding prayer and praise services last evening included First, Kingsley, Grace, Central, Trinity and Calvary in Ridgeley, W. Va.

Other local churches observing Ash Wednesday with special services included First Baptist, Grace Baptist, Second Baptist; St. John's, St. Paul's and St. Luke's Lutheran; St. Mary's Evangelical and Reformed; First Presbyterian, Southminster Presbyterian Emmanuel Episcopal, First Brethren and the Bethany United Brethren church.

Ashes were distributed at St. Mary's church, Oldtown road, after the morning masses and in the evening, and at St. Peter and Paul and St. Patrick's after morning masses, in the afternoon and following the evening services.

ON CAMPAIGN BUTTONS—

Generous citizens who contribute to the fund now being raised for the Boy Scouts of Potomac Council in the area outside of Cumberland will receive buttons upon which will appear the smiling Boy Scout's picture shown above. Volunteer solicitors have agreed to, help this worthy cause in the six counties of Maryland and West Virginia within the jurisdiction of Potomac Council. The campaign opens today and continues through March 8.

Smiling Boy Scout Buttons Will Go To Contributors in Finance Drive

This story is about a middle-aged man who might be a character out of a book but he lives at Midland where he meets life's little problems in his own original manner.

The other day he had a half-ton of coal delivered at his home. The trucker dumped it in his yard about ten yards from the coal shed.

The job of getting the coal under cover again was given some study by the Midland man who figured on the problem for some time.

Of course, he could have taken a shovel and shoveled the half-ton of coal into the coal shed. However, this didn't seem quite the answer as far as this man was concerned who is one inclined to do everything the easiest way possible.

After much thought, the Midland man got out his tools and tore down the coal shed which he proceeded to rebuild around the half-ton of coal. Thus the problem was solved.

A member of the police force recently received an unexpected and pleasant surprise.

It seems last September he met a young soldier at a local railroad station who was short of the necessary cash to get him back to his camp. The soldier only needed a quarter but the officer slipped him fifty cents so he could buy something to eat en route. After the former explained that he had been in the army three years and never had a "black" mark (AWOL) against him.

Recently the officer received a post card which read as follows:

"You may recall that in the month of September, 1940, late one night you loaned a soldier fifty cents to enable him to get a train to his station. I am out of the service now and have just come across your address. I get paid on Feb. 25 and at this time (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

Sanitary Inspector To Enforce Law Relating to Exposed Food Stuffs

Kline Will "Crack Down" on Local Merchants after March 15

Sounding a warning to local merchants, Walter E. Kline, sanitary inspector of the city department of health, yesterday said that after March 15 all provisions of Chapter 8, Section 3 of the City Code, referring to exposing food stuffs will be enforced by members of his department.

Kline stated that there are a number of stores exposing food stuffs such as uncooked meats, fresh fish, dressed poultry, sea food, confectioners' or bakers' products for sale, and advised that unless such foodstuffs are protected from flies, dirt, dust or other sources of contamination, by suitable glass cases, tight covers, cellophane, or other proper containers that will insure protection, the proprietors are subject to penalty as set forth in the city code.

Area of Potomac Council Outside Cumberland To Open Campaign Today

A smiling Boy Scout's picture will be popular in the Tri-State area during the coming week.

It will appear on a button worn by those generous citizens who contribute to the fund now being raised in the area outside of Cumberland to help along the work of Potomac Council. The campaign opens today and continues through March 8.

Volunteer solicitors who have great respect for the benefits youth can derive from the scout program have agreed to help along this worthy cause.

In a leaflet distributed in the Frostburg district, one finds the following statement:

"Please treat your solicitor as you would yourself like to be treated; he is a volunteer doing a none-too-pleasant job for his community and country. Workers are few and the number to be seen are many."

To defray expenses incident to the many calls for advice and help on scouting problems, Potomac Council has no source of income other than the free will contributions from this drive and the Cumberland Community Chest. Boy scouts usually pay a nominal sum for weekly dues, but this money goes in the local troop's treasury for their own local expenses. Leadership and meeting places are provided by the sponsoring bodies.

The present sum is for the overhead expense incident to camping, leadership training classes, and maintenance of the local headquarters, which is the service station of Scouting in six counties hereabouts.

What Fund Provides

This fund provides for office rent, postage, head and light, stationery, bulletin material, camp rental and operation (not for food), leader training materials, executive service, clerical service, printed supplies, transportation, incidental needs for special activities, advancement certificates, and for many other necessary items essential to proper promotion of Scouting.

15 Days Remain To File Federal Income Returns

Stakem Concludes Field Work Today; Joins Office Staff Tomorrow

With only fifteen more days remaining before March 15, the deadline date, the local staff of the Internal Revenue Department, advises persons who need help in preparing their income tax returns to visit headquarters in the post office building before the last minute rush next month.

For some strange reason that puzzles psychologists and exasperates public officials, people seem to prefer to handle matters like this the hard way. Whether because of inadvertence, sheer inertia or a vague idea that, through some last-minute miracle, they won't have to pay, they postpone doing anything about it until the deadline is at hand.

More Persons Filing

This year Uncle Sam's staff of income tax collectors have more reason than ever to be apprehensive of the last-minute rush. For this year, due to changes in the law, there will be more persons filing returns than ever. Many more.

Consequently, the local staff is putting more than usual emphasis behind this annual plea that Cumberland taxpayers file their returns ahead of the deadline.

If you put off until the closing days and get caught in the crowds, it will be your own fault.

Don't say we didn't warn you.

Richard J. Stakem, deputy collector of internal revenue here, will conclude his field work in county today, his final stop being at the First National Bank in Barton. Tomorrow he returns to the local office to assist a deputy collector and revenue agent in helping people file returns up to the final date, March 15.

Based on Gross Income

There are two arresting facts in the 1940 income tax law. First, the basis for determining liability for a return has been changed from net income to gross income.

Second, the exemptions have been lowered from $1,000 to $800 for a single person, and from $2,500 to $2,000 for a married person or head of a family.

Every citizen or resident of the United States must file an income tax return, if single, or not living with husband or wife, and his or her gross income is $800; or if married, and his or her gross income is $2,000; or if their aggregate gross income equals or exceeds $2,000.

Forms for filing returns of income for 1940 have been sent to persons who filed returns last year. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay the tax on time—on or before midnight March 15 if the return is made on the calendar year basis, as is the case with most individuals.

Forms may be obtained upon request, written or personal, from the local Internal Revenue office.

Make Double Check

In order that none may escape filing the return, employers are required to report the names of all their employees to whom if single, they made payments of $800 or more in 1940; and if married $2,000 or more. If the marital status of the employee is unknown, he must be reported as single.

Neither the President of the United States, nor the Vice-president, nor Federal judges, nor members of Congress, are exempt from filing returns.

Dates Are Changed For Lions Club's Musical Revue

Show Will Be Presented March 19 and 20 in Fort Hill Auditorium

The Lions club musical revue "Tattle-Tales of 1941," has been definitely scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, March 19 and 20, at Fort Hill high school. J. K. Snyder, president of the club announced yesterday.

Dates had been previously announced as March 27 and 28 but Snyder said it was decided to change them in order not to conflict with several other activities already planned for those dates.

Seventy-five or more local persons will take part in the musical farce which, according to Emerson J. Stiles, of New York city, who is directing the production, is a laugh riot from start to finish.

Patterned after the New York success, "Hellzapoppin'," the two-act revue will be filled with comedy and many specialty numbers. Rehearsals will be started this week in the ballroom of the Queen City hotel and anyone who desires to take part in the show will be welcomed by the director and members of the club.

The net proceeds of the play will be used by the Lions club to carry on its charitable work with underprivileged school children, through its milk fund and eye-sight conservation program.

A chapter program will be held tonight at the Moose home, Beall street, by the ritual committee of Chapter 914, Women of the Moose, according to an announcement by Ruth Eckard, chairman of the committee.

The ritual is an exemplification of the conservation of childhood and the care and protection of the aged. Another aim of the group is the betterment of homes and communities wherein Moose lodges are located.

A program of entertainment has been arranged for the occasion.

Meyers Installed As New President Of Textile Union

Local 1874 Stronger Today than Year Ago, Retiring Officers Say

George A. Meyers Jr., newly-elected president of Local 1874, TWUA, last night took the helm of an organization which is forty per cent stronger today than a year ago, according to outgoing officers, who promised the new president their full co-operation.

Wesley Cook, a visiting textile union official from Delaware, presided at the induction ceremony and read the oath of office to Meyers; William Boyd Coleman, vice-president; Clyde D. Lucas, business manager and secretary-treasurer; William Meagher, recording secretary; and other new officers.

James M. Dundon, outgoing president, spoke briefly, pledging his support to the new officers, after which Meyers told the membership that the strongest weapon against elements seeking to undermine the vitality of labor is a "strong organization."

Committee Heads Named

First official act of the new president was to appoint chairmen of six key committees. Chairmen named were Joseph Barley, legislation; Bert Albright, health and working conditions; George Layman, sports; Mrs. Naomi Sheetz, education; William Meagher, special activities; and Charles Graham, by-laws.

Cook, who handles all grievance work for the American Viscose Corporation chain of rayon unions and the Delaware rayon organizations, gave a concise account of recent contract negotiation developments throughout the rayon industry.

The seven plants of the American Viscose chain, the New Bedford Rayon Corporation and the Shenandoah Company of Utica, N. Y., all have contract renewals completed recently, he said.

A new contract has been prepared for the Hartford rayon concern, where the CIO recently won a decisive NLRB election, Cook said.

Legislation Discussed

Another visitor was Sidney R. Katz, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland and District of Columbia Industrial Union Council, who discussed legislation effecting labor now pending at Annapolis.

The executive board of the union voted a resolution honoring the memory of former Governor Harry Nice, who was termed "a true friend of Local 1874."

The membership heard Nice extolled as a man whose understanding action in 1937 marked the turning point for Local 1874. The membership voted to send a floral tribute for the former governor's funeral.

Dundon and Lucas presented detailed reports on the activities and work of the union for the year 1940, both stating that the organization is now stronger than ever before in its history.

Cumberland Readers Still Prefer Western Thrillers, Librarian Says

A reporter who sought out Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, yesterday to obtain some information for a lady in a contest, was surprised to learn that, by and large, Cumberland readers still crave outdoor, hard-ridden fiction.

Zane Grey still remains Cumberland's most popular author. Miss Walsh said. Right now the library is having a run on the Western authors' many novels, crammed with sagebrush and the bark of shootin' irons.

"Zane Grey's death left a gap that hasn't been filled," Miss Walsh said in advising all Cumberland high school youngsters who want to earn a pot of money to scribe a good, action-filled Western thriller.

Curwood Also Missed

"Next to Grey, James Oliver Curwood is the author most missed," she said.

$150,000 for Municipal Airport and $200,000 for Sanitary Sewer in New Measure

Substitution of bills provided $350,000 specifically earmarked airport and sewer construction, place of the proposed $900,000 Consolidated bond issue was asked yesterday of the legally coun. delegation at Annapolis, Charles Z. Heskett, attorney for the City of Cumberland.

One of the bills proposed $150,000 bond issue for use construction the new Cumberland airport. Wiley Ford, Va., and the other would authorize $200,000 bond issue for laying four-mile sewer along Frederick street.

Heskett explained that the latter project would include grading, paving, sewerage and re-surfacing and was necessary to alleviate bad sanitary conditions between Frederick and Bedford streets.

Difficulties encountered because funds for the various projects were not earmarked in the proposed $900,000 bond issue, will be overcome in the two new measures offered by Heskett.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany county delegation, several days ago gave assurance that he will vote for a bill authorizing funds for a Cumberland Municipal airport in West Virginia, but declared he was opposed to the $900,000 consolidated bond issue because it was not earmarked.

At Annapolis, yesterday, Heskett informed the Allegany county delegation that the West Virginia legislature is expected to enact a law shortly to make the proposed airport site tax-free. He told of his recent conference with Governor Matthew M. Neely, of West Virginia, and said that legislation regarding the airport in Wiley Ford will be sponsored by the state administration.

Members of the Allegany county delegation objected to the $900,000 bond issue because the bill failed to state specifically how the money would be spent.

Wording of the Bill

Entitled House Bill No. 109, Section 4 was worded in the following manner:

"That the mayor and council is hereby authorized and empowered to use the proceeds from the sale of the bonds, or any part thereof, when and as the same may from time to time be available, for the acquisition of lands, to be used for public purposes; the erection of structures thereon; the grading, sewerage, paving or repairing or otherwise improving of public property, including highways; the construction of a public airport; the elimination of grade crossings; the construction of bridges; for flood protection, for fire fighting equipment and for the payment of all expenses incident to the acquisition, construction, control or operation of all or any of the foregoing purposes, reserving to the Mayor and City Council, the right to file liens for special benefit against properties abutting upon improvements to the same extent, and in the same manner as now provided by law; and said sums may be expended both within and without the City Limits of Cumberland; provided, however, that none of such proceeds shall be used except for public purposes."

Under the first proposal for a $900,000 bond authorization, the city proposed repeal of bills authorizing (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)
